PREFACE.

In presenting this work to the public, we desire to say a few words defining its mission. It is a known fact that strangers visiting our city naturally feel a desire to witness and have explained to them the magnificent works of art and Government buildings with which our city abounds. Heretofore the travelling public have been compelled to place themselves in the hands of ignorant hack-drivers and trust to their rude balderdash for explanations and reminiscences concerning the District of Columbia. The GAZETTEER will be found a safer and more intelligent guide, and will more satisfactorily explain the advantages and beauties of Washington than any other medium. Hence the traveller can learn what inducements we have to offer him to make our city his home. Aside from its historical and pictorial information, the GAZETTEER will be found to contain the names and address of all the principal business and professional men in the District, a feature which commends itself to our citizens and which makes it desirable in every counting-room and office. In addition to the above, will be found the laws passed by our legislature regarding license and taxes, hacks, vehicles, &c., and the act of Congress creating the new territorial government for the District of Columbia. We feel confident that our aim is good, and bravely push our effort before the people as candidates for public favor.

SPECIAL AND LONG-ESTABLISHED AGENCIES IN THE PRINCIPAL EUROPEAN CITIES.

All business relating to Patents promptly transacted.

Special attention given to the revival and prosecution of rejected and postponed applications; also to appeals to the Board of Examiners, to the Commissioner, and to the Judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Also to the management of Interference cases, and to preparing and prosecuting, and to opposing applications for Extensions of Patents.

Written opinions prepared with reference to infringements, and exhaustive examinations and reports made with reference to the state of the art in connection with any new invention or enterprise.

For nearly nine years Mr. Halsted, as assistant and principal examiner in the United States Patent Office, had charge of the important class known as "Fibrous and Textile," including cotton-gins, hemp brakes, and other mechanism relating to the preparation of fibre, and to carding, spinning, twisting, braiding, knitting, weaving and felting; also sewing, embroidery, fringe, Chenille and lace machines; textile fabrics, wearing apparel, cordage, paper, and paper-making machines, &c.

He acts as associate and resident counsel in litigated and other patent cases, and may be retained as such.

Correspondence solicited with inventors, and with the profession throughout the country.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

This District, containing an area of sixty square miles, was ceded to the United States by an act of the General Assembly of Maryland, December 23, 1788. The District of Columbia was created by Congress July 16, 1790, the corner-stone of which was laid April 15, 1791. In December, 1800, the seat of Government was transferred to this District, hence the establishment of the National Capital dates from that date. The District of Columbia was, prior to the act of Congress approved February 21, 1871, governed solely by Congress, and the people up to that time had no political status whatever. Now, however, the case is entirely changed; the laws of the government are made by the representatives of the people, and the elective franchise is enjoyed here as in other sections of the country. The population of the District, according to the last census, amounts to 131,697 inhabitants. The climate of the District, though changeable, is as free from malaria as any other section of the continent. Epidemical diseases are rare, and the general health and appearance of the people will compare favorably with those of any other section of America. The soil is light, but, with very little cultivation, proves productive, evidences of which can be seen every day in the immense quantities of fruit and vegetables that are brought to the various markets in the different cities of the District.

Under the new form of government bestowed upon the people of this territory, by which they are permitted to live under laws enacted by themselves, great improvements are being pushed forward, and the people are beginning to manifest more interest in the welfare and progress of the District than ever before. The time is not far distant when the District of Columbia will exert a potent influence in the political affairs of the country, and her sons will have still greater cause to be proud of the "garden spot of America." The present government of the District of Columbia is similar to that enjoyed by other Territories belonging to the United States. The executive power is vested in a Governor, who is appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. He holds his office for four years. The legislative power is vested in a Legislative Assembly, which consists of a Council and House of Delegates. The members of the Council are appointed by the President, while the members of the House of Delegates are elected by the people. We annex herewith the act approved February 21, 1871, to provide a government for the District of Columbia.

TERRITORIAL BILL FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all that part of the territory of the United States included within the limits of the District of Columbia be, and the same is hereby, created into a government by the name of the District of Columbia, by which name it is hereby constituted a body corporate for municipal purposes, and may contract and be contracted with, sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, have a seal, and exercise all other powers of a municipal corporation not inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said District of Columbia shall be vested in a governor, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. The Governor shall be a citizen of and shall have resided within said District twelve months before his appointment, and have the qualifications of an elector. He may grant pardons and respites for offences against the laws of said District enacted by the Legislative Assembly thereof; he shall commission all officers who shall be elected or appointed to office under the laws of the said District enacted as aforesaid, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That every bill which shall have passed the Council and House of Delegates shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the District of Columbia; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of all the members appointed or elected to the House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of all the members appointed or elected to that House, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the Governor within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislative Assembly by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, a secretary of said District, who shall reside therein and possess the qualification of an elector, and shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified; he shall record and preserve all laws and proceedings of the Legislative Assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the Governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and journals of the Legislative Assembly within thirty days after the end of each session, and one copy of the executive proceedings and official correspondence semi-annually, on the first days of January and July in each year, to the President of the United States, and four copies of the laws to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, for the use of Congress; and in case of the death, removal, resignation, disability, or absence, of the Governor from the District, the Secretary shall be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and duties of the Governor during such vacancy, disability, or absence, or until another Governor shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill such vacancy. And in case the offices of Governor and Secretary shall both become vacant, the powers, duties, and emoluments of the office of Governor shall devolve upon the presiding officer of the Council, and in case that office shall also be vacant, upon the presiding officer of the House of Delegates, until the office shall be filled by a new appointment.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That legislative power and authority in said District shall be vested in a Legislative Assembly, as hereinafter provided. The Assembly shall consist of a Council and House of Delegates. The Council shall consist of eleven members, of whom two shall be residents of the city of Georgetown, and two residents of the county outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who shall have the qualification of voters as hereinafter prescribed, five of whom shall be first appointed for the term of one year, and six for the period of two years, provided that all subsequent appointments shall be for the term of two years. The House of Delegates shall consist of twenty-two members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for the members of the Council, whose term of service shall continue one year. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, into eleven districts, for the appointment of the Council, and into twenty-two districts for the election of delegates, giving to each section of the District representation in the ratio of its population as nearly as may be. And the members of the Council and of the House of Delegates shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts from which they are appointed or elected, respectively. For the purposes of the first election to be held under this act, the Governor and judges of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia shall designate the districts for members of the House of Delegates, appoint a Board of Registration, and persons to superintend the election and returns thereof, prescribe the time, places, and manner of conducting such election, and make all needful rules and regulations for carrring into effect the provisions of this act not otherwise herein provided for: Provided, That the first election shall be held within sixty days from the passage of this act. In the first and all subsequent elections the persons having the highest number of legal votes for the House of Delegates, respectively, shall be declared by the Governor duly elected members of said House. In case two or more persons voted for shall have an equal number of votes for the same office, or if a vacancy shall occur in the House of Delegates, the Governor shall order a new election. And the persons thus appointed and elected to the Legislative Assembly shall meet at such time and at such place within the District as the Governor shall appoint; but thereafter the time, place, and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the formation of the districts for members of the Council and House of Delegates, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular sessions of the Legislative Assembly: Provided, That no session in any one year shall exceed the term of sixty days, except the first session, which may continue one hundred days.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly shall have power to divide that portion of the District not included in the corporate limits of Washington or Georgetown into townships, not exceeding three, and create township officers, and prescribe the duties thereof; but all township officers shall be elected by the people of the townships respectively.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all male citizens of the United States, above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been actual residents of said District for three months prior to the passage of this act, except such as are non compos mentis, and persons convicted of infamous crimes, shall be entitled to vote at said election, in the election district or precinct in which he shall then reside, and shall have so resided for thirty days immediately preceding said election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said District, and for all subsequent elections twelve months' prior residence shall be required to constitute a voter; but the Legislative Assembly shall have no right to abridge or limit the right of suffrage.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no person who has been or hereafter shall be convicted of bribery, perjury, or other infamous crime, nor any person who has been or may be a collector or holder of public moneys who shall not have accounted for and paid over, upon final judgment, duly recovered according to law, all such moneys due from him, shall be eligible to the Legislative Assembly, or to any office of profit or trust in said District.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That members of the Legislative Assembly, before they enter upon their official duties, shall take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and will faithfully discharge the duties of the office upon which I am about to enter; and that I have not knowingly or intentionally paid or contributed anything, or made any promise in the nature of a bribe, to directly or indirectly influence any vote at the election at which I was chosen to fill the said office, and have not accepted, nor will I accept, or receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing for any vote or influence that I may give or withhold on any bill, resolution, or appropriation, or for any other official act." Any member who shall refuse to take the oath herein prescribed shall forfeit his office, and every person who shall be convicted of having sworn falsely to or of violating his said oath shall forfeit his office, and be disqualified thereafter from holding any office of profit or trust in said District, and shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction shall be punished accordingly.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That a majority of the Legislative Assembly appointed or elected to each House shall constitute a quorum. The House of Delegates shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its members. Each House shall determine the rules of its proceedings, and shall choose its own officers. The Governor shall call the Council to order at the opening of each new Assembly; and the Secretary of the District shall call the House of Delegates to order at the opening of each new Legislative Assembly, and shall preside over it until a temporary presiding officer shall have been chosen and shall have taken his seat. No member shall be expelled by either House except by a vote of two-thirds of all the members appointed or elected to that House. Each House may punish by imprisonment any person not a member who shall be guilty of disrespect to the House by disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence; but no such imprisonment shall extend beyond twenty-four hours at one time. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two days, or to any other place than that in which such House shall be sitting. At the request of any member the yeas and nays shall be taken upon any question, and entered upon the journal.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That bills may originate in either House, but may be altered, amended, or rejected by the other; and on the final passage of all bills the vote shall be by yeas and nays upon each bill separately, and shall be entered upon the journal, and no bill shall become a law without the concurrence of a majority of the members elected to each House.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That every bill shall be read at large on three different days in each House. No act shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in its title; but if any subject shall be embraced in an act which shall not be expressed in the title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be so expressed in the title; and no act of the Legislative Assembly shall take effect until thirty days after its passage, unless, in case of emergency, (which emergency shall be expressed in the preamble or body of the act,) the Legislative Assembly shall by a vote of two-thirds of all the members appointed or elected to each House otherwise direct.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That no money shall be drawn from the treasury of the District except in pursuance of an appropriation made by law, and no bill making appropriations for the pay or salaries of the officers of the District government shall contain any provisions on any other subject.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That each Legislative Assembly shall provide for all the appropriations necessary for the ordinary and contingent expenses of the government of the District until the expiration of the first fiscal quarter after the adjournment of the next regular session, the aggregate amount of which shall not be increased without a vote of two-thirds of the members elected or appointed to each House as herein provided, nor exceed the amount of revenue authorized by law to be raised in such time, and all appropriations, general or special, requiring money to be paid out of the District treasury, from funds belonging to the District, shall end with such fiscal quarter; and no debt, by which the aggregate debt of the District shall exceed five per cent. of the assessed property of the District, shall be contracted, unless the law authorizing the same shall at a general election have been submitted to the people and have received a majority of the votes cast for members of the Legislative Assembly at such election. The Legislative Assembly shall provide for the publication of said law in at least two newspapers in the District for three months, at least, before the vote of the people shall be taken on the same, and provision shall be made in the act for the payment of the interest annually, as it shall accrue, by a tax levied for the purpose, or from other sources of revenue, which law providing for the payment of such interest by such tax shall be irrepealable until such debt be paid: Provided, That the law levying the tax shall be submitted to the people with the law authorizing the debt to be contracted.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly shall never grant or authorize extra compensation, fee, or allowance to any public officer, agent, servant, or contractor, after service has been rendered or a contract made, nor authorize the payment of any claim, or part thereof, hereafter created against the District under any contract or agreement made, without express authority of law; and all such unauthorized agreements or contracts shall be null and void.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That the District shall never pay, assume, or become responsible for the debts or liabilities of, or in any manner give, loan, or extend its credit to or in aid of any public or other corporation, association, or individual.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly shall not pass special laws in any of the following cases, that is to say: For granting divorces; regulating the practice in courts of justice; regulating the jurisdiction or duties of justices of the peace, police magistrates, or constables; providing for changes of venue in civil or criminal cases, or swearing and impanneling jurors; remitting fines, penalties, or forfeitures; the sale or mortgage of real estate belonging to minors or others under disability; changing the law of descent; increasing or decreasing the fees of public officers during the term for which said officers are elected or appointed; granting to any corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privilege, immunity, or franchise whatsoever. The Legislative Assembly shall have no power to release or extinguish, in whole or in part, the indebtedness, liability, or obligation of any corporation or individual to the District or to any municipal corporation therein, nor shall the Legislative Assembly have power to establish any bank of circulation, nor to authorize any company or individual to issue notes for circulation as money or currency.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the District shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation within said District, consistent with the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to all the restrictions and limitations imposed upon States by the tenth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States; but all acts of the Legislative Assembly shall at all times be subject to repeal or modification by the Congress of the United States, and nothing herein shall be construed to deprive Congress of the power of legislation over said District in as ample manner as if this law had not been enacted.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That no member of the Legislative Assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased while he was a member, during the term for which he was appointed or elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding any office of trust or profit under the Government of the United States shall be a member of the Legislative Assembly.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That the said Legislative Assembly shall not have power to pass any ex post facto law, nor law impairing the obligation of contracts, nor to tax the property of the United States, nor to tax the lands or other property of non-residents higher than the lands or other property of residents; nor shall lands or other property in said District be liable to a higher tax, in any one year, for all general objects, territorial and municipal, than two dollars on every hundred dollars of the cash value thereof; but special taxes may be levied in particular sections, wards, or districts for their particular local improvements; nor shall said territorial government have power to borrow money or issue stock or bonds for any object whatever, unless specially authorized by an act of the Legislative Assembly, passed by a vote of two-thirds of the entire number of the members of each branch thereof, but said debt in no case to exceed five per centum of the assessed value of the property of said District, unless authorized by a vote of the people, as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That the property of that portion of the District not included in the corporations of Washington or Georgetown shall not be taxed for the purposes either of improving the streets, alleys, public squares, or other public property of the said cities, or either of them, nor for any other expenditure of a local nature, for the exclusive benefit of said cities, or either of them, nor for the payment of any debt heretofore contracted or that may hereafter be contracted by either of said cities while remaining under a municipal government not co-extensive with the District.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That the property within the corporate limits of Georgetown shall not be taxed for the payment of any debt heretofore or hereafter to be contracted by the corporation of Washington, nor shall the property within the corporate limits of Washington be taxed for the payment of any debt heretofore or hereafter to be contracted by the corporation of Georgetown; and so long as said cities shall remain under distinct municipal governments the property within the corporate limits of either of said cities shall not be taxed for the local benefit of the other; nor shall said cities, or either of them, be taxed for the exclusive benefit of the county outside the limits thereof: Provided, That the Legislative Assembly may make appropriations for the repair of roads or for the construction or repair of bridges outside the limits of said cities.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of said Legislative Assembly to maintain a system of free schools for the education of the youth of said District, and all moneys raised by general taxation or arising from donations by Congress, or from other sources, except by bequest or devise, for school purposes, shall be appropriated for the equal benefit of all the youths of said District between certain ages, to be defined by law.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, That the said Legislative Assembly shall have power to provide for the appointment of as many justices of the peace and notaries public for said District as may be deemed necessary, to define their jurisdiction and prescribe their duties; but justices of the peace shall not have jurisdiction of any controversy in which the title of land may be in dispute, or in which the debt or sum claimed shall exceed one hundred dollars: Provided, however, That all justices of the peace and notaries public now in commission shall continue in office till their present commissions expire, unless sooner removed pursuant to existing laws.

SEC. 25. And be it further enacted, That the judicial courts of said District shall remain as now organized until abolished or changed by act of Congress; but such Legislative Assembly shall have power to pass laws modifying the practice thereof, and conferring such additional jurisdiction as may be necessary to the due execution and enforcement of the laws of said District.

SEC. 26. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, a Board of Health for said District, to consist of five persons, whose duty it shall be to declare what shall be deemed nuisances injurious to health, and to provide for the removal thereof; to make and enforce regulations to prevent domestic animals from running at large in the cities of Washington and Georgetown; to prevent the sale of unwholesome food in said cities; and to perform such other duties as shall be imposed upon said Board by the Legislative Assembly.

SEC. 27. And be it further enacted, That the offices and duties of Register of Wills, Recorder of Deeds, United States Attorney, and United States Marshal for said District shall remain as under existing laws till modified by act of Congress; but said Legislative Assembly shall have power to impose such additional duties upon said officers, respectively, as may be necessary to the due enforcement of the laws of said District.

SEC. 28. And be it further enacted, That the said Legislative Assembly shall have power to create by general law, modify, repeal, or amend, within said District, corporations aggregate for religious, charitable, educational, industrial, or commercial purposes, and to define their powers and liabilities: Provided, That the powers of corporations so created shall be limited to the District of Columbia.

SEC. 29. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly shall define by law who shall be entitled to relief as paupers in said District, and shall provide by law for the support and maintenance of such paupers, and for that purpose shall raise the money necessary by taxation.

SEC. 30. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly shall have power to provide by law for the election and appointment of such ministerial officers as may be deemed necessary to carry into effect the laws of said District, to prescribe their duties, their terms of office, and the rate and manner of their compensation.

SEC. 31. And be it further enacted, That the Governor, Secretary, and other officers to be appointed pursuant to this act, shall, before they act as such respectively, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before a judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia or some justice of the peace in the limits of said District, duly authorized to administer oaths or affirmations, by the laws now in force therein, or before the Chief Justice or some associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, to support the Constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices; which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person before whom the same shall have been taken; and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said Secretary among the executive proceedings; and all civil officers in said District, before they act as such, shall take and subscribe a like oath or affirmation before the said Governor or Secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the District, who may be duly commissioned and qualified, or before the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted by the person administering the same to the Secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards the like oath or affirmation shall be taken and subscribed, certified, and recorded, in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 32. And be it further enacted, That the Governor shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars; and the Secretary shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars, and that the said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly, from the date of their respective appointments, at the treasury of the United States; but no payment shall be made until said officers shall have entered upon the duties of their respective appointments. The members of the Legislative Assembly shall be entitled to receive four dollars each per day during their actual attendance at the session thereof, and an additional allowance of four dollars per day shall be paid to the presiding officer of each House for each day he shall so preside. And a chief clerk, one assistant clerk, one engrossing and one enrolling clerk, and a sergeant-at-arms may be chosen for each House; and the chief clerk shall receive four dollars per day, and the said other officers three dollars per day, during the session of the Legislative Assemby: Provided, That there shall be but one session of the Legislative Assembly annually, unless, on an extraordinary occasion, the Governor shall think proper to call the Legislative Assembly together. And the Governor and Secretary of the District shall, in the disbursements of all moneys appropriated by Congress and intrusted to them, be governed solely by the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, and shall semi-annually account to the said Secretary for the manner in which the aforesaid moneys shall have been expended; and no expenditure shall be made by the said Legislative Assembly of funds appropriated by Congress for objects not especially authorized by acts of Congress making the appropriations, nor beyond the sums thus appropriated for such objects.

SEC. 33. And be it further enacted, That the Legislative Assembly of the District of Columbia shall hold its first session at such time and place in said District as the Governor thereof shall appoint and direct.

SEC. 34. And be it further enacted, That a delegate to the House of Representatives of the United States, to serve for a term of two years, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of the District of Columbia, and shall have the qualifications of a voter, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the Legislative Assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several Territories of the United States to the House of Representatives, and shall also be a member of the Committee for the District of Columbia; but the delegate first elected shall hold his seat only during the term of the Congress to which he shall be elected. The first election shall be held at the time and places and be conducted in such manner as the elections for members of the House of Representatives are conducted; and at all subsequent elections the time and places and the manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of legal votes shall be declared by the Governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly; and the Constitution and all the laws of the United States, which are not locally inapplicable, shall have the same force and effect within the said District of Columbia as elsewhere within the United States.

SEC. 35. And be it further enacted, That all officers to be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for the District of Columbia, who, by virtue of the provisions of any law now existing, or which may be enacted by Congress, are required to give security for moneys that may be intrusted to them for disbursement, shall give such security, at such time and in such manner, as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.

SEC. 36. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a valuation taken in the District of Columbia of all real estate belonging to the United States in said District, except the public buildings and the grounds which have been dedicated to the public use as parks and squares, at least once in five years, and return thereof shall be made by the Governor to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives on the first day of the session of Congress held after such valuation shall be taken, and the aggregate of the valuation of private property in said District, whenever made by the authority of the Legislative Assembly, shall be reported to Congress by the Governor: Provided, That all valuations of property belonging to the United States shall be made by such persons as the Secretary of the Interior shall appoint, and under such regulations as he shall prescribe.

SEC. 37. And be it further enacted, That there shall be in the District of Columbia a Board of Public Works, to consist of the Governor, who shall be president of said board; four persons, to be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, one of whom shall be a civil engineer, and the others citizens and residents of the District, having the qualifications of an elector therein; one of said board shall be a citizen and resident of Georgetown, and one of said board shall be a citizen and resident of the county outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown. They shall hold office for the term of four years, unless sooner removed by the President of the United States. The Board of Public Works shall have entire control of and make all regulations which they shall deem necessary for keeping in repair the streets, avenues, alleys, and sewers of the city, and all other works which may be intrusted to their charge by the Legislative Assembly or Congress. They shall disburse upon their warrant all moneys appropriated by the United States, or the District of Columbia, or collected from property-holders, in pursuance of law, for the improvement of streets, avenues, alleys, and sewers, and roads and bridges, and shall assess, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, upon the property adjoining and to be specially benefited by the improvements authorized by law and made by them, a reasonable proportion of the cost of the improvement, not exceeding one-third of such cost, which sum shall be collected as all other taxes are collected. They shall make all necessary regulations respecting the construction of private buildings in the District of Columbia, subject to the supervision of the Legislative Assembly. All contracts made by the said Board of Public Works shall be in writing, and shall be signed by the parties making the same, and a copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the District; and said Board of Public Works shall have no power to make contracts to bind said District to the payment of any sums of money except in pursuance of appropriations made by law, and not until such appropriations shall have been made. All contracts made by said Board in which any member of said Board shall be personally interested shall be void, and no payment shall be made thereon by said District or any officers thereof. On or before the first Monday in November of each year they shall submit to each branch of the Legislative Assembly a report of their transactions during the preceding year, and also furnish duplicates of the same to the Governor, to be by him laid before the President of the United States for transmission to the two Houses of Congress; and shall be paid the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars each annually.

SEC. 38. And be it further enacted, That the officers herein provided for, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall be paid by the United States by appropriations to be made by law as hereinbefore provided; and all other officers of said District provided for by this act shall be paid by the District: Provided, That no salary shall be paid to the Governor as a member of the Board of Public Works in addition to his salary as Governor, nor shall any officer of the army appointed upon the Board of Public Works receive any increase of pay for such service.

SEC. 39. And be it further enacted, That if, at any election hereafter held in the District of Columbia, any person shall knowingly personate and vote, or attempt to vote, in the name of any other person, whether living, dead, or fictitious, or vote more than once at the same election for any candidate for the same office, or vote at a place where he may not be entitled to vote, or vote without having a lawful right to vote, or do any unlawful act to secure a right or opportunity to vote for himself or any other person, or by force, threats, menace, or intimidation, bribery, reward, or offer, or promise thereof, or otherwise unlawfully prevent any qualified voter of the District of Columbia from freely exercising the right of suffrage, or by any such means induce any voter to refuse to exercise such right, or compel or induce, by any such means or otherwise, any officer of any election in said District to receive a vote from a person not legally qualified or entitled to vote; or interfere in any manner with any officer of said elections in the discharge of his duties; or by any unlawful means induce any officer of an election, or officer whose duty it is to ascertain, announce, or declare the result of any such election, or give or make any certificate, document, or evidence in relation thereto, to violate or refuse to comply with his duty, or any law regulating the same; or knowingly and wilfully receive the vote of any person not entitled to vote, or refuse to receive the vote of any person entitled to vote; or aid, counsel, procure, or advise any such voter, person, or officer to do any act hereby made a crime, or to omit to do any duty the omission of which is hereby made a crime, or attempt to do so, every such person shall be deemed guilty of a crime, and shall for such crime be liable to prosecution in any court of the United States of competent jurisdiction, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or both, at the discretion of the court, and shall pay the costs of prosecution.

SEC. 40. And be it further enacted, That the charters of the cities of Washington and Georgetown shall be repealed on and after the first day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-one, and all offices of said corporations abolished at that date; the Levy Court of the District of Columbia and all offices connected therewith shall be abolished on and after said first day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and seventy-one; but all laws and ordinances of said cities, respectively, and of said Levy Court, not inconsistent with this act, shall remain in full force until modified or repealed by Congress or the Legislative Assembly of said District; that portion of said District included within the present limits of the city of Washington shall continue to be known as the city of Washington, and that portion of said District included within the limits of the city of Georgetown shall continue to be known as the city of Georgetown; and the Legislative Assembly shall have power to levy a special tax upon property, except the property of the Government of the United States, within the city of Washington for the payment of the debts of said city; and upon property, except the property of the Government of the United States, within the limits of the city of Georgetown for the payment of the debts of said city; and upon property, except the property of the Government of the United States, within said District not included within the limits of either of said cities to pay any debts owing by that portion of said District: Provided, That the charters of said cities severally, and the powers of said Levy Court, shall be continued for the following purposes, to wit: For the collection of all sums of money due to said cities, respectively, or to said Levy Court; for the enforcement of all contracts made by said cities, respectively, or by said Levy Court, and all taxes, heretofore assessed, remaining unpaid; for the collection of all just claims against said cities, respectively, or against said Levy Court; for the enforcement of all legal contracts against said cities, respectively, or against said Levy Court, until the affairs of said cities, respectively, and of said Levy Court, shall have been fully closed; and no suit in favor of or against said corporations, or either of them, shall abate by reason of the passage of this act, but the same shall be prosecuted to final judgment as if this act had not been passed.

SEC. 41. And be it further enacted, That there shall be no election for Mayor or members of the Common Council of the city of Georgetown prior to the first day of June, eighteen hundred and seventy-one, but the present Mayor and Common Council of said city shall hold their offices until the said first day of June next. No taxes for general purposes shall hereafter be assessed by the municipal authorities of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, or by said Levy Court. And upon the repeal of the charters of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, the District of Columbia be, and is hereby, declared to be the successor of said corporations, and all the property of said corporations, and of the county of Washington, shall become vested in the said District of Columbia, and all fines, penalties, costs, and forfeitures, which are now by law made payable to said cities, respectively, or said Levy Court, shall be paid to said District of Columbia, and the salaries of the judge and clerk of the Police Court, the compensation of the deputy clerk and bailiffs of said Police Court, and of the Marshal of the District of Columbia, shall be paid by said District: Provided, That the moneys collected upon the judgments of said Police Court, or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be applied to the payment of the salaries of the judge and other officers of said court, and to the payment of the necessary expenses thereof, and any surplus remaining after paying the salaries, compensation, and expenses aforesaid, shall be paid into the treasury of the District at the end of every quarter.

Approved February 21, 1871.

AN ACT imposing a license on trades, business and professions practised or carried on in the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the District of Columbia, That no person shall be engaged in any trade, business or profession hereinafter mentioned until he shall have obtained a license therefor, as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That every person engaged in any trade, occupation, or profession for which a license tax is imposed by the laws of the District of Columbia, shall, at the time for procuring the same, make application to the Register, and shall state, under oath or affirmation, such facts as may be applicable to licenses as apothecaries, commercial agents, bankers, banks, bar-rooms, sample-rooms, and tippling-houses; billiard, bagatelle, and Jenny Lind tables; bowling-alleys, brokers, dealers in merchandise; distilled and fermented liquors, wines, and cordials; hacks, carriages, cabs, omnibuses, and street cars; hotels, fire, and life insurance companies; livery stables, manufacturers, peddlers, resident or otherwise. The Register shall then issue to the applicant a certificate, stating the particular kind of license for which application has been made, and the amount of money required by law to be paid therefor. Said certificate shall be delivered to the Collector, who shall, upon the receipt of the sum of money stated therein, give a certificate of deposit, stating the amount of money paid, and the kind of license required, and it shall be the duty of the Register to issue said license. Every license shall state the name of the person to whom granted, and the number of the house and street where it is desired to carry on such business or occupation, when such business or occupation has an established location, and the kind of business for which it is required, and shall be signed by the Register, and impressed with the seal of his office. Licenses may be transferred to persons to continue the same business in the same house, or to remove a place of business, under the same regulations as the original license. All transfers shall be certified by the Register.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That all licenses for produce brokers, peddlers, non-resident dealers, and commercial agents shall date from the first of April of each year, and expire on the thirty-first of March following. All licenses for carts, wagons, and drays, and for hacks, carriages, cabs, omnibuses, and street cars shall date from the first of July of each year, and expire on the thirtieth of June following; and all other annual licenses shall date from the first of November of each year, and expire on the thirty-first of October following. And the license of every person liable for license tax after the first of April, July, and November, aforesaid, shall date from the first of the month in which the liability began, and payment shall be made for a proportionate amount: Provided, That all licenses heretofore granted by the cities of Washington and Georgetown and the Levy Court shall continue in force for the period named in the same.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That every person liable for license tax, who failing to pay the same within thirty days after the same has become due and payable, for such neglect shall, in addition to the license tax imposed, pay a fine or penalty of not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, and a like fine or penalty for every subsequent offence: Provided, That every non-resident trader, managers of every theatrical performance, exhibition, ball, and concert for gain, not including exhibitions and concerts by or for religious or charitable institutions, shall procure a license before undertaking those several objects, and a failure to do so shall subject the person so offending to a fine or penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars for each offence, to be imposed and collected as other fines are imposed and collected, one-half to the use of the informer.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That in any case where more than one of the pursuits or occupations hereinafter described shall be pursued or carried on in the same place, by the same person, at the same time, except as hereinafter provided, the tax shall be paid for each according to the rates severally prescribed.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That except in the case of non-resident traders, peddlers, and insurance agents, licenses granted by the District of Columbia shall only be good for the conducting of business at the location named therein: Provided, That the dealers in the District of Columbia shall have the right, by agent or person, to solicit orders by sample or otherwise in said District without procuring an additional license.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That if any person, resident or non-resident of the District of Columbia, who may have obtained license to sell merchandise, shall permit any non-resident dealer or agent, without license as such, to sell under his license or to occupy any portion of his premises for the purpose of offering for sale merchandise under his license, the person so offending shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars for each offence, to be imposed and collected as other fines.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the term "non-resident dealer" shall be taken to mean dealers or agents of dealers whose place of business is beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, and who may by sample, catalogue, or otherwise, solicit orders in the District of Columbia: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not include any person bringing to the city wood, lumber, building materials, or produce of any kind, to be sold by the car, cargo, or wagon load, or to persons bringing marketing to the District, or to regular dealers whose residence may be beyond the limits of said District.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the keeper of every livery stable, wood, coal, or lumber-yard shall, before engaging in such business, obtain the consent in writing of a majority of the persons owning real estate, and a majority of the residents keeping house on the same side of the square on which is the principal front of the stable or yard about to be built or kept, and the side of the square fronting immediately opposite, for him to enter upon and engage in such business, the Register to determine which is the principal front; and without such permit being first obtained it shall be unlawful to grant such license.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That every place where distilled or fermented liquors are sold in less quantity than one pint, to be drank on the premises, shall, unless kept by apothecaries, be known as a bar-room, sample-room, or tippling-house, as the case may be; and it shall be the duty of the proprietor of every such place to present, with his application for license, the written permission of a majority of the owners of real estate, and a majority of the residents keeping house on the square where it is desired to locate such business, and of the squares opposite the same, which permission shall be certified to by the assessor of the district in which such business is to be located, and such license shall not be issued until approved by the Board of Metropolitan Police: Provided, That the failure of any keeper of a hotel, eating-house, tavern, or restaurant, to obtain a license to sell distilled or fermented liquors in quantity less than one pint, shall not otherwise affect said business of keeping a hotel, eating-house, tavern, or restaurant, he having a license for the same.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That any person selling distilled or fermented liquors or wines in mineral or soda water, or other like beverage, shall be liable for the same license and under the same restrictions as provided in the preceding section.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That every apothecary having a license as such shall be allowed to sell distilled, fermented, or vinous liquors, for medical purposes only, in quantity not to exceed one-half pint at one time to the same purchaser, without the taking of an additional license therefor. In addition to other regulations governing the granting of licenses to apothecaries, which may be imposed by law, regulating the sale of medicines and poisons, apothecaries shall include in their affidavits, at the time of making application for license, the words: "And will not sell, or cause to be sold, any distilled, fermented, or vinous liquors, except alcohol, in quantities exceeding half a pint, at any one time to the same purchaser, and then only when deponent has reason to believe the same will be used for medical purposes ''

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That nothing contained in this act shall authorize any person to keep his place of business open on Sunday for the sale of any merchandise whatever, except medicines in cases of necessity.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That every undertaker selling coffins, caskets, or burial cases, not of his own manufacture, shall be liable for a license as a dealer.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That no person whatsoever shall sell, or expose for sale, at auction, any property, real or personal, within the District of Columbia, without having first obtained a license as auctioneer. Every person who may offer to sell at auction any property or merchandise, without license, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars for each offence. Every licensed auctioneer, and every real-estate agent, shall give bond to the Secretary of the District of Columbia in the sum of five thousand dollars, with two good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the Governor, for the honest and due performance of all duties required by law. Every auctioneer and real-estate agent failing to comply with the provisions of this section of the laws of the District of Columbia governing such sales shall, on conviction, forfeit his license, and be fined not less than one hundred dollars.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That wherever in this act a license tax is levied on capital invested, it shall be taken to mean the average capital invested, cash and credit, during the preceding year; or, if the business is just begun, the actual capital at the time.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That wherever in this act a tax is imposed monthly on sales or receipts, returns for the same shall be made to the Register, under oath or affirmation, on or before the tenth of each month, and the same shall be due and payable to the Collector on or before the thirtieth of each month; and all such taxes remaining unpaid after the thirtieth of each month, a penalty of five per centum shall be added, and it shall be the duty of the Register to make demand for the payment of the same. For this purpose, said Register is hereby authorized to employ some suitable person, who shall be entitled to a commission of ten per centum on the amount collected; and if unpaid for three months after the same has become due and payable, the Register shall transmit the account for the same to the Attorney of the District of Columbia for collection by due process of law. If, in the opinion of the Register, the returns required by law are under estimated, he shall have power to examine, either in person or by deputy, the books and accounts of the person making such return; and if he shall find that the returns made are less in amount than that shown by said books and accounts, he shall make an assessment for a correct sum, to which he shall add a penalty of twenty-five per centum on amount of tax due.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That all carts, wagons, and drays licensed by the District of Columbia shall, at the time of receiving the license, be furnished with a number of the same, legibly painted on tin or some other suitable material, with the letters D. C. and the year, which the owner or agent shall attach to said cart, wagon, or dray, in some conspicuous place; and in like manner a number shall be furnished, painted on tin or some other material, in the form of a badge, which shall be worn conspicuously on the person of the driver of each hack, carriage, cab, or other licensed vehicle for the transportation of passengers for hire, except street cars, when in service; and any person offending against this section shall be fined not less than five dollars for each offence.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Register to keep, in books prepared for the purpose, a list of the names of all persons obtaining licenses for carts, wagons, and drays, and for hacks, carriages, and cabs, and other vehicles for the transportation of passengers, numbered to correspond with the number of the license.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That every agent for life or fire insurance companies, whose principal office is beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, shall obtain a separate license for each company he may be agent for: Provided, That licensed insurance agents may employ solicitors of insurance without the payment of an additional license.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That a license tax shall be, and hereby is, imposed as follows, that is to say:

First. Apothecaries shall pay annually four dollars on each thousand dollars or fractional part thereof of capital invested. Every person whose business it is to manufacture, compound and dispense medicines, shall be regarded as an apothecary; but apothecaries shall not be liable for an additional license for selling other merchandise, or for the sale of alcohol in any quantity, or for the sale of distilled or fermented liquors or wines, for medicinal purposes, in quantities not exceeding half a pint at one time to the same purchaser.

Second. Auctioneers shall pay one hundred dollars annually and a monthly tax on gross receipts of one-fourth of one per centum, except sales made by order or decree of any court; and the rates of charges on the sale of real estate at public auction shall be five per cent. on the first two hundred dollars, two per cent. on the next one thousand dollars, and one per cent. on all amounts in excess of that sum.

Third. Commercial agents shall pay two hundred and fifty dollars. Every person residing in the District of Columbia, whose business it is as agent for non-resident manufacturers or wholesale dealers to offer for sale merchandise, shall be regarded as a commercial agent: Provided, That any person not occupying a store or office, outside the principal store or office, acting exclusively as agent for one manufacturer or one business house located in the District of Columbia, shall not be liable for license as a commercial agent.

Fourth. Banks and bankers shall pay annually fifty cents on each thousand dollars of capital invested. Every incorporated or other bank, and every person having a place of business where credits are opened by the deposit or collection of money or currency, subject to be paid or remitted upon draft, check, or order, or where money is advanced or loaned on stocks, bonds, bullion, bills of exchange, or promissory notes, or where stocks, bonds, bullion, bills of exchange, or promissory notes, are received for discount or for sale, shall be regarded as a bank or banker: Provided, That savings banks having no capital stock, and whose business is confined to receiving deposits and loaning or investing the same, shall pay monthly a tax of one-twentieth of one per centum on the amount of deposits; but associations or companies known as provident institutions, savings banks, savings funds, or savings institutions, having no capital stock, and doing no other business than receiving deposits to be loaned or invested for the sole benefit of the parties making such deposits without profit to the association or company, shall pay annually fifty dollars.

Fifth. Bill-posters shall pay twenty dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to post advertising bills, or distribute circulars, shall be regarded as a bill-poster: Provided, That no license shall be required of any dealer who may post or distribute advertisements of his own business.

Sixth. The proprietors of bar-rooms, sample-rooms, and tippling-houses shall pay one hundred dollars annually. Every place except an apothecary store, where distilled or fermented liquors, wines, or cordials are sold in less quantities than one pint at a time to the same purchaser, shall be regarded as a bar-room, sample-room, or tippling-house.

Seventh. The proprietors of beer gardens shall pay five dollars per day. Every place known as a pleasure garden or park, where an admission fee is charged, shall be known as a beer garden. But no tax shall be required for days when no admission fee is charged to such garden: Provided, That a license as beer garden shall not authorize the sale of distilled or fermented liquors, wines, or cordials.

Eighth. The proprietors of billiard-tables, bagatelle, Jenny Lind tables, for public hire or gain, and shuffle-boards, shall pay ten dollars annually for each table or board.

Ninth. The proprietors of bowling alleys shall pay annually for each alley ten dollars.

Tenth. Brewers shall pay twenty-five dollars annually. Every person who manufactures fermented liquors of any name or description for sale from malt, wholly or in part, or from any substitute therefor, shall be deemed a brewer: Provided, That a license as brewer shall not authorize the sale of fermented liquors in quantities of less than one pint.

Eleventh. Brokers shall pay annually one hundred dollars. Every person whose business it is to negotiate purchases or sales of stocks, bonds, exchange, bullion, coin, money, bank notes, promissory notes, or other securities, for himself or others, shall be regarded as a broker: Provided, That any person having paid a license tax as banker shall not be required to pay a license tax as broker.

Twelfth. Commercial brokers shall pay fifty dollars annually. Every person, except non-resident dealers, whose business it is as broker to negotiate sales or purchases of merchandise of any kind whatever, or to negotiate freights and other business for the owners of vessels, or for the shippers, or consigners, or consignees of freight carried by vessel, shall be regarded as a commercial broker.

Thirteenth. Cattle brokers shall pay twenty dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to buy and sell, for himself or another, cattle, sheep, hogs, or horses, shall be regarded as a cattle broker.

Fourteenth. Pawnbrokers shall pay annually two hundred and fifty dollars. Every person whose business it is to take and receive, by way of pledge, pawn, or exchange, any merchandise, or any kind of personal property whatever, as security for the repayment of money lent thereon, shall be regarded as a pawnbroker.

Fifteenth. Butchers shall pay annually—in Northern market, fifty dollars; Western market, twenty dollars; Eastern market, twenty dollars; Georgetown, twenty dollars each. Every person whose business it is to sell meat from market stalls shall be regarded as a butcher: Provided, That the license herein imposed may be revoked at any time by refunding to the party holding it the amount corresponding to the unexpired portion of the time it is to run, and shall not operate to prevent the District of Columbia at any time from disposing of the stand or stall occupied by such party.

Sixteenth. Carts, wagons, and drays shall pay annually as follows: Wagons, eight dollars; carts four dollars; drays, four dollars; handcarts, two dollars: Provided, That no license shall be required for light wagons kept exclusively for pleasure.

Seventeenth. The managers of concerts, exhibitions, and balls for gain, not otherwise enumerated, or games of any kind, where an admission fee is charged, shall pay for each day five dollars.

Eighteenth. Circuses shall pay two hundred dollars for each week or part thereof. Every building, tent, space, area, where feats of horsemanship or acrobatic sports, or theatrical performances pertaining to or being a part thereof, are exhibited, shall be regarded as a circus. Exhibitors of wild animals shall pay twenty-five dollars per week: Provided, That proprietors of circuses having license as such shall not be taxed for license for exhibiting wild animals.

Nineteenth. Distillers shall pay fifty dollars. Every person who distils or manufactures spirits shall be deemed a distiller.

Twentieth. Dealers in merchandise of any kind whatever, not otherwise provided for, shall pay annually four dollars of each thousand dollars or fractional part thereof of capital invested in business: Provided, That no license shall be for a less sum than five dollars.

Twenty-first. Dealers in distilled and fermented liquors, wines, and cordials shall pay annually ten dollars for each thousand dollars of capital invested: Provided, That no license shall be for a less sum than twenty-five dollars: And provided further, That this license shall not authorize any person to sell any distilled or fermented liquors, wines, or cordials in less quantities than one pint.

Twenty-second. Produce dealers shall pay annually twenty-five dollars. Every person whose business it is to buy and sell produce, fish, meats, or fruits, from wagons or carts, stalls, stores or stands, shall be regarded as a produce dealer. No additional license shall be required of a produce dealer for selling meat or for selling groceries, when the capital invested is less than one thousand dollars: Provided, That any person selling produce of his own raising shall not be liable for license for selling the same. Produce dealers having stands in the several markets shall pay a license for each; the same selling from wagons and from a store at the same time shall be liable for each.

Twenty-third. Non-resident dealers shall pay five hundred dollars annually. Every person whose business is located beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, and who, either in person or otherwise, may solicit orders for merchandise, except distilled or fermented liquors, wines, and cordials, by sample or otherwise, shall be regarded as a non-resident dealer.

Twenty-fourth. Non-resident dealers in distilled and fermented liquors, wines, and cordials, shall pay annually six hundred dollars. Every person whose business house is located beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, and who, either in person or otherwise, may solicit orders for distilled or fermented liquors, wines, and cordials, by catalogue or otherwise, shall be regarded as a non-resident dealer in distilled or fermented liquors, wines, and cordials.

Twenty-fifth. The proprietors of gift enterprises shall pay one thousand dollars annually. Every person who shall sell or offer for sale any real estate or article of merchandise of any description whatever, or any ticket of admission to any exhibition or performance, or other place of amusement, with a promise, expressed or implied, to give or bestow, or in any manner hold out the promise of gift or bestowal of any article or thing for and in consideration of the purchase by any person of any other article or thing, whether the object shall be for individual gain or for the benefit of any institution, of whatever character, or for any purpose whatever, shall be regarded as a gift enterprise: Provided, That no such proprietor in consequence of being thus taxed shall be exempt from paying any other tax imposed by law, and the license herein required shall be in addition thereto.

Twenty-sixth. The proprietors of hacks, cabs, omnibuses, and street cars, and other vehicles for transporting passengers for hire, shall pay annually as follows: Hacks and carriages, ten dollars; one-horse cabs, six dollars; omnibuses, ten dollars; street cars, six dollars; or other vehicles capable of carrying ten passengers or more at one time, ten dollars.

Twenty-seventh. The proprietors of hotels shall pay annually as follows: Hotels containing twenty rooms or less, suitable for the accommodation of guests, twenty-five dollars; the same, containing more than twenty rooms, suitable for the accommodation of guests, one dollar for each room over twenty. Every place where food and lodging are provided for and furnished to travellers and sojourners for pay shall be regarded as a hotel: Provided, That a hotel license shall not authorize the sale of distilled or fermented liquors, wines or cordials.

Twenty-eighth. Proprietors of intelligence offices who charge for services shall pay annually ten dollars.

Twenty-ninth. Fire insurance companies shall pay annually fifty cents on each thousand dollars of capital invested. Every company, firm, or corporation, whose business it is to grant policies of insurance for buildings of any kind, boats, vessels, and ships, furniture, or merchandise, against loss by fire, shall be regarded as a fire insurance company.

Thirtieth. Life insurance companies shall pay annually fifty cents on each thousand dollars of capital invested. Every company, firm, or corporation, whose business it is to insure the life of any person, or who may agree to pay to the person insured any sum of money, in case of accident to said person, or who may agree, on conditions, to pay to the person insured an annuity, shall be regarded as a life insurance company.

Thirty-first. Insurance agents shall pay annually fifteen dollars, and, in addition, a monthly tax of one per centum on the gross receipts of such agency, whether such receipts are in cash or notes for the part payment of premium. Every person whose business it is to act as agent for any life or fire-insurance company, whose principal office is located beyond the District of Columbia, shall be regarded as insurance agents: Provided, That in cases where any person is agent for more than one company, the license tax of fifteen dollars shall be paid for each company: Provided further, That non-resident insurance agents shall pay two hundred and fifty dollars annually. Every agent or solicitor of insurance, whose office and residence is beyond the limits of the District of Columbia, shall be regarded as a non-resident insurance agent.

Thirty-second. The proprietors of junk-shops shall pay forty dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to keep a store or office for buying and selling old iron, rags, paper, second-hand clothing, or like old material, shall be deemed the keeper of a junk-shop. Dealers in old barrels shall pay a license of ten dollars.

Thirty-third. The proprietors of livery stables shall pay as follows: Not exceeding ten stalls, twenty-five dollars, and two dollars for each additional stall more than ten. Any person whose business it is to keep horses for hire, or to keep, board, or feed horses for others, shall be regarded as a livery-stable keeper: Provided, That nothing contained in this clause shall be so construed as to exempt livery-stable keepers from procuring additional license for running cabs, hacks, or hackney coaches.

Thirty-fourth. Proprietors of grounds and for horse racing or tournaments shall be required to pay a weekly tax of twenty-five dollars, or five dollars per day, when so used.

Thirty-fifth. Photographers shall pay annually twenty dollars. Any person who makes for sale photographs, ambrotypes, daguerreotypes, or pictures by agency of light, shall be regarded as a photographer.

Thirty-sixth. Peddlers residing in the District of Columbia shall pay fifty dollars annually. Any person, a resident of the District of Columbia, who may offer for sale from house to house, or from a wagon, dry goods, fancy goods, notions, toys, and similar articles, shall be known as a peddler.

Thirty-seventh. Non-resident peddlers shall pay two hundred dollars annually. Any person who may offer for sale from house to house, or from a wagon, articles enumerated in paragraph thirty-six of this section, shall be known as a non-resident peddler.

Thirty-eighth. Real-estate agents shall pay twenty-five dollars annually, and in addition pay monthly a tax of one-fourth per centum on gross receipts. Every person whose business it is to sell or offer for sale real estate for others, or to rent houses, stores, or other buildings or real estate, or to collect rents for others, shall be regarded as real estate agents: Provided, That license as real-estate agents shall not authorize any person to act as auctioneer without license as such.

Thirty-ninth. Rectifiers shall pay twenty-five dollars annually. Every person who rectifies, purifies, or refines distilled spirits or wines by any process, or who, by mixing distilled spirits or wine with any materials, manufactures any spurious, imitation, or compound liquors for sale, under the name of whiskey, brandy, gin, rum, wine, "spirits," or "wine bitters," or any other name, shall be regarded as a rectifier: Provided, That rectifiers shall not require license as liquor dealer for the sale of spirits, and so-forth, of their own rectification.

Fortieth. Proprietors of restaurants and eating-houses shall pay twenty-five dollars annually. Every place, the business of which is to provide meals and refreshments, except distilled or fermented liquors, wines, and cordials, for casual visitors, shall be regarded as a restaurant or eating-house.

Forty-first. The proprietors of theatres shall pay annually one hundred dollars: Provided, That license may be granted for theatrical performances for one week on the payment of twenty dollars. Every edifice used for the purpose of dramatic, operatic, or other representations, plays, performances, or burlesques, for admission to which entrance money is received, whether such fee is intended solely for admission or to convey a right, without further charges, to distilled or fermented liquors, wines, cordials, to be drank on the premises or elsewhere, but not including hall rented or occasionally used for concerts or theatrical representations, shall be regarded as a theatre.

Forty-second. The proprietors of variety theatres shall pay five hundred dollars annually. Every hall or building used for burlesque, dramatic, and operatic representations or other funny plays or performances, shall be known as a variety theatre, and shall include also places where liquors are sold, dispensed, or given to persons in the audience: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to include a license for the sale of liquors: Provided further, That a license may be granted for one week on the payment of twenty-five dollars.

Forty-third. Contractors, whose gross receipts are in excess of five thousand a year, shall pay twenty-five dollars annually. Every person who contracts for building railroads, bridges, ships, or buildings, or for paving or grading streets or sidewalks, or for building sewers and other work of a like character, shall be regarded as a contractor.

Forty-fourth. Book agents shall pay ten dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to solicit subscriptions for or deliver books or maps, shall be regarded as a book agent: Provided, That only one person shall be authorized to solicit orders or deliver books, maps, or engravings under one license.

Forty-fifth. Manufacturers of illuminating gas shall pay a tax of five hundred dollars annually.

Forty-sixth. Claim agents shall pay fifteen dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to prosecute claims before the Executive Departments of the General Government or the District of Columbia shall be regarded as a claim agent.

Forty-seventh. Patent agents shall pay twenty-five dollars annually. Every person whose business it is to procure patents shall be regarded as a patent agent.

Forty-eighth. Ice dealers shall pay annually four dollars on each thousand dollars of capital invested. Every person, firm, company, or corporation whose business it is to sell ice shall be regarded as ice dealers: Provided, That persons who may sell or peddle ice from house to house, and not acting as the agent or employee of any person, firm, or corporation, shall not be liable for any license except on the wagon used for the purpose.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That, for the purposes of this act, the word person shall signify and include firms, corporations, or company. Words of one number shall signify and include words of both numbers respectively. Words of one gender shall signify and include words of every gender respectively. The word agent shall signify and include every person acting for another. The word merchandise shall signify and include every article of commerce, whether sold in bulk, by sample, catalogue, or otherwise. Dealers shall signify and include every person engaged in selling or offering for sale by sample, catalogue, or otherwise.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That in consequence of the increase in the rates of license over the old laws and ordinances of Washington, Georgetown, and the Levy Court, the tax on personal property shall be seventy cents on each and every hundred dollars: Provided, That the tax on bonds, promissory notes, and other securities bearing interest, shall not exceed five per cent. upon the income thereof.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, That all laws and ordinances of the corporations of Washington and Georgetown and the Levy Court, providing police regulations for the several businesses of the citizens of the District of Columbia, are hereby continued in force; and all acts and ordinances, or parts of the same, of the said corporations of Washington and Georgetown and the Levy Court and the District of Columbia, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed; and whereas an emergency exists, this act shall go into effect immediately on and after its passage.

	And for each additional passenger, 50 cents. One mile or less, one-half these rates.

In all cases where a vehicle is not engaged by the hour, it shall be considered as being engaged by the trip. It is expressly understood that in all cases the fare for two passengers, together with the articles herein provided for to be carried by each, shall be the same as for one only.

The fare to any point outside of Washington and Georgetown and within the District of Columbia shall, in all cases, be charged by the hour, or part of an hour, and at the same rate as within these cities, and if the vehicle is dismissed outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown a fare of fifty cents additional may be charged.

Each passenger is entitled to have conveyed, without extra charge, one trunk, or other travelling box or bag: Providing, There be not more than two trunks or other travelling boxes to be conveyed at one time for the person or persons hiring the conveyance. If there be more than two trunks, the driver shall be entitled to twenty-five cents for each additional one. Each passenger shall also be entitled to have conveyed such other small packages as can be conveniently carried within the vehicle.

The driver shall load and unload all baggage without additional charge.

If a passenger claims to be overcharged by a driver, the driver is compelled to drive the passenger to the nearest police station, where the officer in charge will immediately decide the case. In case where a passenger is about to leave by a railroad, stage or steamboat the officer on duty at such place shall promptly settle the same in accordance with law.

On the obverse side of this ticket the following shall appear, to wit: and such additional matters as may hereafter be deemed necessary for information.

The driver must present this to every passenger before or upon entering his vehicle:

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That if any driver of a hackney carriage, cab, or other vehicle for the conveyance of passengers for hire, fails to hand the before-mentioned ticket to each and every passenger before or upon entering their vehicle he shall be liable to a fine of one dollar for each and every offence.

Sec. 15. And be it further enacted, That if any driver or owner of a hackney-carriage, cab, or other vehicle for the conveyance of passengers for hire, fails to have placed in a conspicuous place in his vehicle a printed card of not less than ten inches in length and six inches in breadth, containing the matter set forth in section thirteen, and signed by the Register, he shall be fined ten dollars for each and every time he conveys a passenger or passengers without displaying the printed card before named.

Sec. 16. And be it further enacted, That no owner or driver of a hackney-carriage or other vehicle for hire as before named shall refuse to carry a passenger at the foregoing rates, or demand any greater sum than the rates of fare established; nor shall he, when engaged, take up an additional passenger or passengers without the consent of the person or persons who first engaged him.

Sec. 17. And be it further enacted, That when any driver of a hackney-carriage or other vehicle, as before named, shall demand an amount in excess of his lawful fare, he shall forfeit the whole amount due, and be liable to a fine of not over ten dollars for each and every offence.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The city of Washington, the capital of the United States, is situated on the Potomac river, at the mouth of the Anacostia or Eastern Branch.

The site was chosen by General George Washington, the first President of the nation. The design of the city was made by a Frenchman, L'Enfant, who originally intended that the Capitol should occupy the centre of the city; but from various causes it has grown principally westward. Pennsylvania avenue, the great thoroughfare of the city, extends from the Eastern Branch to Georgetown, and is justly considered one of the finest streets in the world. From the Capitol to the Treasury building this magnificent boulevard is paved with the Nicholson wood pavement, and ornamented on each side with beautiful shade trees. The largest and finest mercantile houses of the city are on this avenue.

During the "gay season" Pennsylvania avenue presents a most lively appearance. Every evening, just before the last rays of the setting sun sets below the horizon, may be seen the beauty and fashion of the American capital here parading in luxurious equipages.

Unlike all other American cities, Washington is not a commercial city. To a stranger she is more like Paris. Being the political capital of one of the largest and most powerful nations upon earth, her streets are naturally thronged with strangers from all parts of the civilized world. The Government buildings, works of art, and national souvenirs, not only make her beautiful, but more than ordinarily attractive to sight-seers. In attempting to give a sketch of the attractions of the capital of the nation, we naturally begin with the great centre of attraction,

THE CAPITOL.

Not the temple of Solomon at Jerusalem, nor the temple of Diana at Ephesus, in the olden time, nor St. Peter's at Rome, nor St. Paul's at London, in modern times, afford the beholder (either in ideal conception or in reality) so grand an idea of harmonious yet magnificent proportions as the Capitol of the United States, with its cloud-piercing dome and extended wings. The first exclamation of the visitor as he approaches the American Temple is that of astonishment at its proportions, the symmetrical lift of its mighty Dome, the harmonious stretch of its extensions. The corner-stone of this magnificent edifice was laid by General George Washington on the 18th day of September, 1793. A critical inspection of the Capitol and its departments is not to be accomplished in an hour, nor in a day, while a minute description of its main features would fill a volume. The length of the entire structure is 751 feet, (nearly a quarter of a mile,) and the pile of marble covers about four acres and one-third of ground; the surrounding reservation grounds embrace thirty acres more, embellished by fountains, statuary, &c. These are yet to be greatly enlarged and adorned.

A condensed description of the edifice will assist the observer to a correct tout-ensemble of the whole. The Senate Chamber and Hall of the House of Representatives are located in the new wings, the Senate on the left and the House on the right, as you ascend the main stairway leading up into the great Rotunda.

The Dome, which lifts its tremendous frame above the Rotunda, is 220 feet from floor to apex, and from the base of the Capitol about 400 feet. The figure of the Statue of Freedom, which crowns the Dome, is of bronze, twenty-one feet high, and weighing 14,985 pounds. This statue was commenced by Crawford, the artist, and completed by Clark Mills. Jefferson Davis, then Secretary of War, and having supervisory charge of the Capitol, suggested to the artist the "helmet cap" of eagle feathers and beak that now ornaments the statue. This great Dome is modern in its structure, and that there is none other that rivals or equals it in the world is the opinion of famed architects in this country and in Europe. A smaller dome on each side would, perhaps, add grace and harmony as a whole, but their absence leaves nothing to regret in the contemplation of the edifice as it stands.

The Senate Chamber and Hall of the House are especially worthy the inspection of visitors. Their arrangements are reputed the best that the genius of art could suggest, and their adornments quite take away the beholder's ideas of republican simplicity. The Senate wing is 113 feet long, 80 feet wide, and 36 feet high; the galleries will seat about 1,200 people. The House wing is 139 feet long, 93 feet wide, and 36 feet high; accommodation of the galleries about the same as the Senate.

The Rotunda is 96 feet in diameter, and 220 feet high; something near the elevation of the highest church steeples.

On the first floor it is divided into eight panels; in each are paintings representing, respectively, Embarkation of the Pilgrims for America, by Weir; Landing of Columbus, by Vanderlyn; The Baptism of Pocahontas, by Chapman; Discovery of the Mississippi by De Soto, by Powell; Declaration of Independence; Surrender of General Burgoyne; Surrender of Cornwallis and the British Army at Yorktown, by Colonel John Trumbull.

Between the panels, in basso relievo, are four historical subjects, representing The Preservation of Captain John Smith by Pocahontas; Landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock; Penn's Treaty with the Indians; Conflict between Daniel Boone and the Indians; there are also specimens of sculpture of the heads of Columbus, La Salle, Sir Walter Raleigh, and Cabot, by Causici and Capelleno. On the outside of the east door are also statues of Columbus, The Indian Woman, and two of colossal size, representing Peace and War, by Persico. There is also a group called Civilization. In the Park is Greenough's colossal marble statue of Washington, his right hand pointing toward heaven, and in the left holding a Roman sword.

The Capitol by moonlight, when the moon, rising behind the pile, falls upon the helmet of the Goddess, and descending bathes the surface of the marble, is beautiful beyond description, and recalls Sir Walter Scott's lines on Melrose Abbey—

"If thou wouldst view fair Melrose aright, Go view it by the pale moonlight."

The Dome, illuminated with its thousand lights, is also a spectacle to be witnessed. These illuminations occur on occasions when night sessions of Congress are held.

THE STATUARY ROOM.

The room devoted to the exhibition of statesmen and soldiers of the nation is a more recent feature of the Capitol; the Hall is the old House of Representatives, whose pillars and walls in times agone re-echoed to the eloquence of Webster, Hale, Clay, Calhoun, and that great host of statesmen who have since

"Gone forever, and forever by."

The works exhibited here are a copy of Houdon's Washington, the original of which stands in the Capitol at Richmond, Virginia; a life-size statue of Alexander Hamilton, another of General Greene, of the Revolution, and the lifelike and much-lauded statue of Abraham Lincoln, by Vinnie Ream, recently placed in position here. Other works of art by eminent foreign and native artists, on canvas and in marble, are distributed about the Capitol edifice, under the archways and on the grand stairways leading up into the Senate and House Chambers.

THE CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY

Is located in the west front of the Capitol, and is ninety-two feet long, thirty-four wide, and thirty-six feet high. The room is probably one of the finest of the kind on the continent, being beautifully ornamented with rich stucco border, panels, wreaths, &c., and is lighted by sky-light from the ceiling.

During our war with Great Britain the Capitol was destroyed, but subsequently it was rebuilt in greater splendor, and the Library now contains 200,000 volumes.

THE SUPREME COURT ROOM

Is situated in the Capitol, and is of a semicircular shape. On the walls is an emblem of Justice holding her scales, and also a figure of Fame. It is here that the Supreme Court of the United States holds its sessions. This body is one of the three co-ordinate branches of the United States Government.

The scene from the Dome of the Capitol, looking westward toward the Treasury, is one of unparalleled magnificence and grandeur. On the left are the Botanical Gardens, adorned with flowers and shrubbery from every clime, in the centre of which stands the great conservatory. Further on, south of the avenue, stands the SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE.

This noble institution owes its existence to James Smithson, Esq., an English gentleman, who endowed it. Its object, to use the language of the beneficiary, is "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." It is built of red sandstone, somewhat after the Norman style of architecture. The grounds surrounding it are elaborately laid out and embellished with many rare and exotic plants The length of the building is 450 feet; its breadth 140 feet. It has nine towers, the highest of which attains an elevation of 150 feet. The Museum connected with this institution contains many rare curiosities.

The next object of interest that meets the eye is the AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The United States Department of Agriculture was established by act of Congress, approved May 15, 1862. In the law creating it its general design and duties are defined to be "to acquire and to diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with agriculture in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and to procure, propagate, and distribute among the people new and valuable seeds and plants." The law provides for the appointment of a "Commissioner of Agriculture," to "be the chief executive officer of the Department of Agriculture," and in prescribing his duties further indicates the object of the Department. It says he is "to acquire and preserve in his Department all information concerning agriculture which he can obtain by means of books and correspondence, and by practical and scientific experiments, (accurate records of which experiments shall be kept in his office,) by the collection of statistics, and by any other appropriate means within his power; to collect, as he may be able, new and valuable seeds and plants; to test by cultivation the value of such of them as may require such tests; to propagate such as may be worthy of propagation and to distribute them among agriculturists."

The census establishes the fact that one-half the population of the United States is either directly engaged in agricultural pursuits or wholly dependent upon them for support, while no census is required to prove that the whole country is mainly indebted for its prosperity to the quiet labors of the independent farmer. Our commerce and manufactures are of vast importance, but they are of secondary interest when compared with our stake in agriculture. Unlike some of the nations of Europe that do not produce food enough to supply the necessary wants of their people, poorly as some of them are always fed, the United States annually produces more food than her people can consume or waste. We are large exporters of meats and breadstuffs and of other agricultural productions. We are distinctly and pre-eminently a nation of farmers, and such we shall undoubtedly remain. The temperate and stimulating climate of our country, the variety of soil and range of latitude and elevation, the rural tastes of our people, and the vast domain yet open to homestead occupancy, combine to assure a continuance of the interest heretofore manifested in agricultural pursuits. It is somewhat strange, therefore, in view of all these facts, that so much attention has been bestowed from the foundation of the Government upon the encouragement of commerce and manufactures and so little upon the encouragement and improvement of agriculture; stranger still, that any professedly patriotic citizen should ever have given utterance to the sentiment that "agriculture can take care of itself." Not only has the attention of politicians and statesmen been diverted from this chief of all the industries, but farmers themselves have been slow to press their claims to more favorable recognition.

The first recognition which the agricultural interest of the country received from Congress, in the way of appropriation of public money, was under date of March 3, 1839, when it was enacted, by requestof Hon. H. L. Ellsworth, Commissioner of Patents, "that a sum of money not exceeding one thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby, appropriated out of the patent fund, to be expended by the Commissioner of Patents in the collection of agricultural statistics, and for other agricultural purposes." Similar appropriations were made in succeeding years, after 1842, the amount being gradually increased to $5,000 for the year 1853, and paid from the Patent Office fund; that office, however, being reimbursed in that year, by act of Congress, in the sum of $39,000, the full amount of its outlay on account of agriculture. In 1854 Congress appropriated $10,000 for agriculture, and in 1862, the year in which the division of the Patent Office having charge of agricultural matters was erected into a national department, the appropriations had been increased to $60,000. The Commissioner of Patents annually reported to Congress the results of efforts in behalf of agriculture, the same being published under the title of "Patent Office Reports—Agriculture," and the first, in 1839, containing fifty-four pages. From the establishment of the Government up to and including the year 1862, the direct public expenditure for the encouragement of agricultural industry amounted to only $554,000; less than the actual benefit conferred upon the country by a single importation and distribution of grain by the Commissioner at a cost not exceeding that of the legislative act which instituted the Department. The total expenditures in behalf of agricultural interests have been exceedingly small—a pittance in comparison with the university and magnitude of interests, and with the amounts annually appropriated to foster and build up others, of which the claims are no greater, though more persistently pressed. And with the small appropriations allowed, the Commissioner has, with a tact and frugality not always imitated, kept the expenditures within the limits of the current appropriations, while carrying out to a highly satisfactory extent the designs of such a Department. The Department of Agriculture continued to occupy rooms in the Patent Office building until the completion of the edifice designed for its permanent occupation, in August, 1868. The Department building is located upon a reservation of Government land, containing thirty-five acres, between the grounds of the Smithsonian Institution and those containing the incomplete Washington Monument, and commands a very fine view of all these grounds, a large portion of the city, and of the adjacent country. It is 170 feet long by 61 feet deep, and consists of a finished basement, three full stories, and Mansard roof. It is designed in the renaissance style of architecture, and the front (north) presents a centre building with main entrance, flanked by projecting wings. The material is pressed brick, with brown-stone base, belts, trimmings, and cornices. There are on the first floor above the basement fourteen rooms, besides a fine octagonal vestibule and ample corridor. The library, containing over 7,000 volumes, many of which are rare and valuable, is in the west wing, and is 20 by 61 feet in size. There are fourteen rooms upon the first floor, ten of which are 20 feet square, and all are 16 feet in height. The rooms of the Commissioner and Chief Clerk are finished by wainscoting, in American "wood-hanging," in elegant style. The others are finished by paneling in encaustic paint, and with frescoed ceilings. The office and laboratory of the chemist and his assistants occupy the east end first floor, with a large room in the basement. The former contains a small special library, and fine geological and mineralogical cabinets, which are constantly being enlarged by contributions. In these rooms analyses of earth paints, fullers' earth, the various kinds of clay and limestones, calcareous minerals, roofing slates, varieties of pyrites, bituminous shales, blendes, iron, copper, silver, and gold ores, marls, wines, mineral waters, &c., have been and are carried on. The employment of the laboratory is directed to subjects of importance to scientific agriculture, mainly, and is intended to be entirely so. The main portion of the second story is occupied by the Museum of Agriculture, and is approached by a double flight of fire-proof stairs from the centre opposite the vestibule, lighted by a grand window of stained glass. This hall, or Museum, is 102 feet long, 52 feet wide, and 27 feet high, and is lighted through ten windows, each 7 by 16 feet. It has a bold-coved stucco cornice, with brackets sculptured in colossal Indian busts, and is adorned by festoons of flowers and fruits, and medallion shields into which are worked the escutcheons of the United States, surrounded by those of the thirty-seven States of the Union in chronological succession. The Museum is designed to be one of reference and strict utility, from which—and the books and notes of reference connected with it, and from the attendants—such information as is desired by the visitor may be obtained concerning the history, production, health, &c., of all kinds of agricultural products, especially those suited to our own country. It contains, for instance, about 1,500 accurately moulded and colored specimens of fruits; 500 specimens of native and 1,200 of foreign grain; over 200 specimens of corn in the ear; about 100 of sugar and 50 of molasses, from various substances; 40 of Indian food; cases of specimens of economic substances, as oils, gums, dyes; cases of American birds and fowls, and such as may be acclimatized here; the finest collection of silk cocoons in the country; various fibre specimens, as wool, cotton, hemp, flax, flax cotton, ramie, asclepias, jute, &c., and miscellaneous tropical fibres; specimens of woods, arranged according to botanical classification; forage plants; and, not least in interest, between 7,000 and 8,000 accurately drawn and colored representations of injurious insects, with reference on each plate to book and page where their natural history is to be found—the etching upon copper, printing, coloring, labelling, and research being the work of the accomplished entomologist, done in the mornings and evenings of a few years. At the western terminus of the Museum are the rooms of the entomologist, and one of extra size devoted to the use of the botanist, containing a valuable herbarium of about 1,500 species. At the eastern terminus are the rooms of the statistician and some of his assistants. In them are prepared the annual and monthly reports of the Department, a work of great labor and care, involving regular correspondence and the collection of statistics each month from every county in the Union, and the proper digestion and presentation of the same to the public. The third story of the building contains rooms where seeds are assorted and put up for distribution, and is in easy communication with the basement by means of a large elevator. The basement rooms contain the steam-heating apparatus, the folding and book rooms, coal and wood cellars, closets, &c.

The grounds containing the Department buildings are beautifully undulating. A large portion has been devoted to as complete an arboretum as can be found in any country; and in the main front of the building a flower garden of geometrical design. The arboretum is being made as perfect and complete in species and varieties as the climate will admit, and with a strictly botanical arrangement is combined the idea of landscape effect. Walks and roads are being made through the grounds, and their ultimate connection with those of the contiguous grounds has been kept in view, admitting of a uniform style of improvement with them, and the highest style of landscape gardening. A propagating garden near the Capitol is the property of the Department also, and, with a portion of the grounds near the principal building, furnishes the means of testing and cultivating plants, &c. A conservatory, located west of and on a line with the Department building, having a front of 320 feet, and a rear extension from the centre of 150 feet, is now in process of construction, and besides its evident usefulness for the purposes of testing and plant propagation, forms a beautiful feature of the scene in the Department grounds. Two small summer-houses, in a style in keeping with the architecture of the building, will be placed at each of the front corners of the flower garden in due time.

The first Commissioner of Agriculture, Hon Isaac Newton, of Pennsylvania, was appointed by President Lincoln, in June, 1862, and retained his position until his death, in the autumn of 1867. His successor, Gen. Horace Capron, was confirmed and entered upon his duties November 29, 1867. The erection of Department buildings, laying out of grounds, and all the improvements tending to the accommodation and inward and outward thrift of the Department, and the increased scope of usefulness given to its operations in behalf of its great and peculiar interests, characterized his administration. Gen. Capron was by education, long experience, and that genuine natural inclination which manifests itself con amore, peculiarly fitted to preside over the interests of such a Department. If there was any failure during his administration to meet the just requirements of the agricultural interest, a knowledge of the comparatively and really meagre appropriations placed at his command, and never in any case exceeded in his expenditures, will suggest a sufficient reason.

On the 27th of June, 1871, Commissioner Capron tendered his resignation, to take effect August 1, and the President thereupon appointed the Hon. Frederick Watts in his stead. Judge Watts is a native of Carlisle, and was educated at Dickinson College, where he was graduated at the age of nineteen. Immediately after his graduation he went to Erie county, Pennsylvania, and there lived three years with an uncle, working daily on his farm. It was while residing with this uncle that the taste for farm life, which has characterized his whole career, was fully formed, and a practical knowledge of its essential requirements thoroughly learned. Returning to Carlisle, he studied law with Andrew Carothers, and was admitted to the bar. He practised his profession until 1848, when he was commissioned by Governor William F. Johnston as president judge of the ninth judicial district of Pennsylvania, composed of the counties of Cumberland, Perry, and Juniata. This office he held for three years, when, it having been made elective, and the district being under the control of the political party with which he was not in sympathy, he retired from the bench and returned to the bar. He did not, however, actively engage in his profession, a large portion of his time being devoted to the personal superintendence of a farm near Carlisle. For many years he had been a farmer as well as a lawyer, and had become known as one who believed in the application of science to the tilling of the soil. In 1858 he abandoned entirely the practice of law, and since then has been exclusively a farmer. During the last few years he has resided on his farm, giving to all the details of its management his personal attention. He is also the owner of another farm, which he manages through a tenant.

Judge Watts' prominence as a farmer led to his election, in 1856, as the first president of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society, which office he held until 1862, when he declined a re-election. He was elected the first president of the board of trustees of the Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, a position which he still holds. He has never been prominent as a politician, although entertaining at all times positive views of public policy, and has never been a candidate for either congressional or legislative honors. He was not an applicant for the distinguished position to which he has just been appointed, and its duties and responsibilities have been accepted with reluctance.

Judge Watts is a practical and scientific farmer. He has devoted his life to the practice of progressive methods of diversified agriculture, and has always manifested a deep interest and genuine enthusiasm in the advancement of the farmer's calling. In his new office he may be expected to give to all the agricultural interests of the country the same intelligent and industrious attention he has bestowed upon the varied operations of his own farm and the agriculture of Pennsylvania.

The efforts of the Department are now directed to obtaining and publishing reports of the condition and prospects of crops, to the analysis of soils, &c.; to ascertaining the meteorology or climatic peculiarities of all sections of the country; to the introduction of useful plants, including medical, and fruits of other countries, and the development of some of our wild fruits and plants; to the investigation of fibre plant, grasses, cereals, and root crops most serviceable or best adapted to each section; to affording information, so far as possible, in response to inquiries upon all subjects coming within its scope; and in fact to a general fostering and practical encouragement of the grand interest it represents.

It has taken its true place in relation to agriculture, and the appropriations to second and carry out its designs, it is to be hoped and expected, will be sufficient to give vigor to its efforts in behalf of an interest, not sectional nor partial, but national and universal—one from which wealth and prosperity are primarily derived—the interests of agricultural industry.

The cordial co-operation of scientific agriculturists and agricultural societies throughout the country would tend greatly to strengthen and aid the Department in its important labors, and is undoubtedly desired by its chief officer.

The library of the Department now contains about 8,000 volumes, and is the fullest in its specialty of agriculture, and its allied sciences of botany, entomology, geology, pomology, &c., of any in the country. Besides all the standard works on these subjects, it comprises nearly complete sets of the reports of the boards of agriculture in the different States, all the leading agricultural periodicals in this country and Europe, and the transactions of numerous scientific societies in England, Germany, France, and Italy, with which the Department is in constant communication.

UNITED STATES TREASURY.

This beautiful edifice is built of granite, and is 457 feet in length, with a colonnade 300 feet long, containing 42 marble columns. The beautiful fountain recently erected at the north front is a very fine specimen of art, and adds greatly to the beauty of the building. The grounds in rear of the Treasury are being beautified, and when finished will undoubtedly attract much attention among pleasure seekers. In this building is transacted all the great financial schemes of the Government. The United States vaults, and also the printing department, are in this building, and located several feet under ground, while the upper stories are occupied by the several bureaus, together with the clerks, both male and female, amounting to upward of 3,000. Visitors are admitted between the hours of 9 A. M. and 2 P. M. every day except Sunday.

Formerly the United States Treasury was in a brick building on Fifteenth street, but having been destroyed by fire in 1833, the Government erected on nearly the same site the present elaborate structure.

The next object of interest on this great promenade is

THE PRESIDENT'S MANSION.

This building is built of white freestone, and is 170 feet front and 86 feet deep. It is situated at the intersection of Pennsylvania, New York, and Connecticut avenues. The entrance opens into a large hall 40 by 50 feet. The door in the centre leads into a reception-room handsomely furnished in crimson. The East Room, situated in the east end of the Mansion, is 84 feet. It is here that the President receives the people upon public occasions. There are many other apartments in the building, all of which are magnificently furnished, and in a manner becoming the residence of the Chief of a great Republic. The designer was James Hoban, Esq., under whose direction the edifice was rebuilt, after being destroyed by the British in 1814.

Adjoining the President's Grounds are the War and Navy Departments of the United States Government. The former contains the archives and trophies of the Army, and is occupied by the Secretary of War and the various officers of his Department. The building is built after the modern style, and is wholly of brick. The Navy Department, immediately north of the War Department, and fronting on Seventeenth street, is also a brick building, and is occupied by the Secretary of the Navy, heads of bureaus, and clerks of the Department. Portraits of naval heroes, flags, and medals won by our gallant Navy are here preserved, and are to be seen by visitors during office hours. The other departmental buildings are located in different portions of the city, occupying generally the most elevated locations.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

This magnificent building, located on two squares, fronting south on F street, north on G street, east on Seventh street, and west on Ninth street, is perhaps one of the finest specimens of architectural work in the Union. It is plain, but grand; huge, but symmetrical. It is built of white marble, and is 410 feet in length by 275 feet in width. The style of architecture is Doric, with porticoes on the north, south, east, and west fronts.

The interior is marked by the same peculiarities of plainness and grandeur that characterize the outside. The basement story is divided into offices, while the upper story forms a grand quadrangular apartment, tastefully and conveniently fitted up for the exhibition of models of patents and many curious and ingenious contrivances of mechanical skill. The Patent Office was destroyed by fire December 15, 1836, at which time all the records and models were lost. The present edifice, however, far surpasses the former, and, being fire-proof, is secure from a like catastrophe. The Bureau of Pensions, the Census Bureau, the Land Office, and the Department of the Interior, now occupy apartments in this building; but having been built expressly for the Patent Office, all other departments and bureaus will in time be removed to other premises.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

This building, situated on the square bounded on the north by F street, on the east by Seventh street, on the south by E street, and on the west by Eighth street, is one of the most elaborately decorated buildings in Washington. It is built of white marble, after the Corinthian style. The first story is ornamented with rustic work, over which rise columns and pilasters, extending up two stories, with a U. S. PATENT OFFICE.

MUNN & CO., Publishers of the Scientific American, have been engaged in the business of Soliciting Patents for more than TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and have the most extensive facilities for transacting such business of any concern in the world. More than 50,000 Inventors have availed themselves of their services in procuring patents, and many millions of dollars have accrued to the patentees, whose specifications and claims they have prepared. For the past ten years the cases filed in the Patent Office by them are about one-third of the entire number of applications filed. Their corps of specification writers and counsellors are made up from the ranks of the Patent Office, and are men capable of rendering the best service to the inventor from the experience practically obtained while Examiners in the Patent Office. They make searches and give opinions as to the novelty and patentability of inventions or the scope or validity of patents, prepare and file caveats, prepare and prosecute applications for patents, re-issues, and extensions, prepare and attend to the registry of trade marks and copyrights, prepare and record agreements, assignments, powers of attorney, conduct interferences and appeals. They also prosecute rejected applications which have been improperly prepared by the inventor or incompetent attorneys. Good inventions are often rejected for no other reason than that the cases were not properly presented to the office.

Inventors will find it to their interest to consult them about matters relating to patents, and they can do so either in person at their office in this city, or in New York or by letter. In all cases they may expect an honest opinion. For such consultations, opinions, and advice, no charge is made. All business committed to their care and all consultations are kept secret and strictly confidential. Pamphlets containing laws and instructions how to obtain patents sent free on application; also, pamphlets giving cost of obtaining patents in all foreign countries. MUNN & Co. have solicited a larger number of European Patents than any other agency, and they have agents located in London, Paris, Brussels, Berlin, and other chief cities of Europe.

paneled cornice. The main entrance is on E street, by a flight of granite steps leading to a vestibule; to the right and left of this vestibule are spacious corridors leading to the different apartments in the building. The Postmaster General, together with his assistants and their clerks, occupy the whole building, with the exception of a portion of the first story, which is now occupied and used as the city post office, the entrance to which is on F street, opposite the Patent Office.

There is a little incident (related to the writer by one of the oldest inhabitants) connected with the survey of the ground on which the Post Office now stands which may be of interest to the reader. After the present site had been determined upon, the Government surveyor and his assistants proceeded to the spot and commenced driving down stakes to designate the exact position of the building. After laboring hard all day they returned to their abodes, but on arriving on the ground the next morning they found all the stakes pulled up, and an old lady standing in a threatening attitude in the centre of the lot, and who, upon their approach, declared in most positive words that the work should not go on.

Paying no heed to this remonstrance, the men proceeded to repair the damage, but as fast as they would drive down a stake, the old lady, with heroic fortitude, would pull it up, and finally, seeing their determination to destroy her property, as she declared, this female champion of landlords' rights seized a club and drove the desecrators of her home away from the scene.

Andrew Jackson, then President of the United States, hearing of the difficulty, repaired to the scene of action, and was immediately approached by the female warrior and warned off the premises. The old General tried threats, but they were unheeded, and finally, after a great deal of coaxing, and the promise to build her a house to live in the balance of her days, the old lady surrendered. The President in after years often told the story, and claimed it as one of his greatest victories.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

The building occupied by this Department of the General Government is situated on the corner of Fourteenth and S streets N. W. It is built of brick, and was originally intended for an orphan asylum, but is leased by the Government for a term of years, and until the new State Department building is finished. The site of the new State Department now building is on Seventeenth street, west of the President's Mansion and adjoining the War and Navy Departments. It is to be built of granite quarried near Richmond, Va., and when completed will be one of the finest structures in Washington.

THE NATIONAL OBSERVATORY

is situated on the corner of E street north and Twenty-fourth street west. The site is a beautiful one, and commands a fine view of Georgetown and the surrounding country. The Potomac river, one of the most majestic streams in the world, flows by, and like a huge serpent rambles silently on as far as the eye can reach, until lost below the horizon. The reputation of this institution is world-wide, and, although only established in 1842, it is said that there are none superior to it.

THE NAVY-YARD.

The Navy-yard of Washington, occupying an area of twenty-eight acres, is situated on the Eastern Branch, about one mile southeast from the Capitol. It includes an armory, foundry, a laboratory for preparing ordnance stores, and, in fact, all the conveniences for ship-building, &c. Among the vessels built here in former days may be mentioned the Wasp, the Essex, the Brandywine, and Columbia. During our late war many iron-clad vessels were built and rigged at this yard, some of which are at present stored away within the spacious docks, relics of the nation's skill, old friends whose services are no longer required, and, like old friends, are being too nearly forgotten. Why is it that our Government in time of peace pays so little regard to the necessity of keeping their navy-yards in good order? Not only is the Washington yard neglected, (the entrance to which is a disgrace to the nation,) but nearly all the others are suffering in like manner. The yard at Portsmouth, Virginia, particularly, is more like a truck-dealer's yard than anything else we can compare it to. England, Russia, and Prussia have, by wise and liberal management and by judicious legislation, finally succeeded in so improving their facilities for ship-building that they now possess the finest navies, as well as the most complete navy-yards, in the world. The United States, notwithstanding the terrible lesson taught her in 1861, still permits her splendid facilities to lay idle, and her reputation for shipbuilding to become a thing of the past.

THE WASHINGTON ARSENAL.

The Arsenal occupies a tract of land on the extreme end of Greenleaf Point, and commands a fine view up and down the Potomac river. The principal buildings are the repository for the storage of arms, the officers' quarters, and the commandant's residence. The grounds are very tastefully laid out, and are properly cared for. Along the water front are fine rows of shade trees and gravel walks, and at intervals large pyramids of cannon balls loom up and indicate at once the character of the institution.

THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

The National Monument to Washington, an offering of love and reverence from a grateful people to "The Father and Defender of his Country," is situated on what is called the Mall, south of the Presidential Mansion. The corner-stone of this grand piece of architecture was laid July 4, 1848. As this is intended as a tribute from the people of the United States, as well as all others throughout the world who desire to honor the great hero and statesman, only contributions from such sources would be received toward it.

Through the energy and perseverance of George Watterston, Esq., and others, the project was pushed forward until it reached it present altitude of 150 feet. The plan and scheme are grand, and it is hoped that the American people will soon exert themselves to raise the necessary funds to complete it. The honor is due the immortal hero. Besides, it is a duty that ought not to be neglected.

The obelisk or base on which the Monument rests is 81 feet square, and the whole structure, when completed, is to be 600 feet high. The base is a temple 250 feet in diameter and 100 feet high. Surmounting the portico of the entrance is to be a colossal statue of Washington, 30 feet high. The figure will be represented in a chariot drawn by horses driven by Victory. A magnificent terrace crowning this pantheon will be opened at the four cardinal points, and each surmounted with a circular temple embellished with symbols of Immortality.

Trenton, Brandywine, and other scenes of the Revolution are represented on tablets of sculpture on each face of the main shaft.

Around this pantheon is a colonnade, the columns of which are surmounted by an entablature 20 feet high, containing the coat of arms of every State in the Union. Over this is a balustrade, forming a colonnade surrounding the terrace.

The stairway in front of the portico is to be embellished with the statues of the great heroes of 1776. Ascending the stone steps, we reach a gallery which leads to a series of cabinets, one for each State, in which are to be deposited the names of the contributors; also, the records regarding the Monument.

There will also be in the grand base a number of apartments curiously and ingeniously constructed, and which will be in itself a wonderful subterranean apartment, as difficult of exploring as the wildest forests. This grand structure will be, when completed, a fit monument for the gifted son of America, and one that will reflect honor upon the nation. Why, then, is it not completed? Why, when the crowned heads of Christendom have contributed their offering to this emblem of a nation's love, do not the American people come forward and complete the work? Let us hope the day is not far distant when they will; and when that day does come, let every American heart rejoice in possessing the grandest monument upon earth, and in the satisfaction of having done their duty.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY.

This institution was organized under an act of Congress, and is intended to be a university of the highest grade. Although in the act of incorporation there is no mention made of either race or color, yet it is understood to be designed especially for colored people. The buildings are located on Seventh street, and are situated in the midst of beautiful grounds, and is easy of access by railway from all parts of the city. Although only recently established, the institution is gaining an enviable reputation throughout the country.

THE MEDICAL MUSEUM, is situated on Tenth street, between E and F streets. Here are collected all casts of surgery taken from actual operations performed during the late war, both on the field and in hospital; also, many rare curiosities of more than ordinary interest to the student of medicine. The building in which the Museum is located was formerly known as Ford's Theatre, and was purchased by the United States Government soon after the assassination of President Lincoln, which occurred at this place April 14, 1865.

While the President was in the private box of a Washington theatre, John Wilkes Booth entered unobserved and shot him in the head, then leaped down upon the stage, fell, and fractured his leg, but was up in an instant, and, brandishing a dagger, shouted the motto of Virginia, "Sic semper tyrannis." He made his escape to the rear, and vanished.

About the same hour, Secretary Seward, who was laying in bed from a broken arm, was attacked by an assassin, who inflicted several stabs upon him, which have not proved fatal, and nearly killed his son Frederick and attendants, who tried to defend him; he also made his escape.

It now seems there was a plot to assassinate the whole Cabinet and Lieutenant General U. S. Grant. On Wednesday morning, April 26, Booth, with an accomplice, named Harold, was discovered in a barn near Port Royal, on the Rappahannock, and refusing to surrender, the barn was fired; his companion then gave himself up, and Booth was shot in the head. He lingered in such great agony as to beg his captors to kill him. He died in three or four hours afterward.

President Lincoln never spoke after receiving the cruel shot, and died on the following morning, at twenty-two minutes after seven, his face assuming a placid look, as if going into a sweet sleep. Thus passed away the good, kind, honest ABRAHAM LINCOLN, not by the natural course of disease, or in the accepted peril of war, but by the foul shot of an assassin, just when his efforts were being crowned with success in putting down the most gigantic rebellion the world ever witnessed. He made an idol of his country, and died a martyr for his integrity. For four years "a merciful Providence preserved him to the nation, to defend its principles, to guide its councils, and to lead it out from the bloody depths of a terrible war into the bright sunlight of a blessed peace. But in this first moment of high hope, when the dark cloud of war was breaking; when Peace was spreading her wings over the land; when all was buoyant with gladness; when the great heart of our murdered Chief was palpitating with joy at the fast coming time when bloodshed and slaughter should cease, and while seeking to know how he could best temper Mercy with Justice in dealing with those who, by their crimes, had draped the land in mourning, in this hour of security and repose he was cruelly and brutally murdered."

On the 19th of April, 1775, this nation was born in blood on the battle-field of Lexington. On the same day, 1861, it was new born in the streets of Baltimore, by Massachusetts troops. On the same day, 1865, there was weeping and mourning throughout the land, and solemn public prayers were held, for Abraham Lincoln had gone through the gate of blood to join the noble army of our country's martyrs who had gone before him. May 4 his remains were interred in Springfield, Illinois. "Men die, but principles live forever."

On Wednesday, July 5, sentence was passed by the Military Court upon the conspirators connected with the murder of President Lincoln, and was approved the same day by President Johnson, to be carried into effect on the 7th. The sentence was that Mrs. M. E. Surratt, David E. Harold, George A. Atzerodt, and Lewis Payne, (whose real name was Lewis T. Powell, and the one who attacked Secretary Seward,) should be hanged; and Michael O'Laughlin, Samuel Arnold, and Dr. Mudd, imprisoned for life; and Edward Spangler to be confined for six years. The execution of the sentence was one of the most summary on record ; it was made known to the prisoners on the 6th, and at half-past one the next day their spirits fled to that undiscovered country "from whose bourne no traveller returns."

The following items will give some idea of the immense labor which devolved upon the court-martial :

Total number of witnesses subpœnaed, 463 ; number of witnesses examined, 361 ; number examined, including recalls, 422 ; number subpœnaed for prosecution, 247 ; number actually examined, 198 ; number subpœnaed for defence, 236 ; number actually examined, 163 ; total number of pages of testimony, (legal cap,) 4,300, making a solid pile of manuscript somewhat over twenty-six inches high ; the arguments will make, in addition, 700. The vast masses of depositions taken by three Judge Advocates, prior to the opening of the case, employed five short-hand writers a fortnight, and will take two experienced clerks six weeks to brief and file away.

CITY HALL.

The building is situated at the junction of Louisiana avenue and D and Four-and-a-half streets. The structure is 200 feet long, shaped like two wings connected by a spacious vestibule, approached by flights of granite steps. The rooms in the interior are now used by the city courts, the local government offices having been removed to the Columbia building, on Four-and-a-half street, between Pennsylvania avenue and C street. The legislative body occupies the second and third stories of Metzerott's building, on Pennsylvania avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets.

CORCORAN ART GALLERY.

This beautiful structure is situated on the northwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Seventeenth street. It is built of brick, ornamented with brown-stone pilasters. The interior is elaborately embellished with frescoe and Italian marble. The lofty ceilings, hung with magnificent chandeliers, lend an additional charm to the taste and skill of the architect and artist. This palatial establishment is a gift from William W. Corcoran, Esq., to Washington city, to be devoted to art. A collection of very fine paintings and statuary will soon be placed here, which will make it an object of manifold interest to visitors.

OUR CEMETERIES.

And now, kind stranger, after following us in our ramblings, and after having listened to us in our brief sketch of the monuments and marble palaces, permit us to lead you quietly to other scenes, and pardon us if we dwell too long among the honored graves of dear, departed friends, or by the marble obelisk of our lost heroes.

With all their gayety and ostentation, our people love to cherish the memory of these loved ones and adorn their resting place with starry-eyed violets, snow-drops, amaranths, weeping foliaged trees, and blooming roses, for

> "How sweet to lay our precious dead
> In such a spot to sleep,
> Where waving trees their branches spread,
> And stars their vigils keep;
> Looking from Heaven with angel eyes
> To guard the sacred dust we prize."

Among the living there is a dread to meet the victorious enemy of mankind, and yet the remains of the departed rest in his embrace in a deep sleep that knows no waking save when that auspicious hour arrives to summon the departed souls to resume again the form of their Maker.

The adornments of the graves are impressive admonitions to the living to prepare for another and a better world. It is indeed comforting to the heedless living to know that the hand of some loved one will beautify and adorn their last resting place. In the unbroken stillness of a lone church-yard, where lie all that remains of the cherished friends of our youth, where the white tombstone marks the form of a sainted mother, a kind father, dear brothers, sisters, and all that once made earth happy, the mind in solemn contemplation reviews the scenes of other days. The awful majesty of God wells up before the stricken heart of man, and points to his insignificance, yet with merciful kindness warns him from "the wrath to come."

Herculaneum and Pompeii are but types of our own burial places. The flames of the burning Mount brought with them the dread messenger, Death, and summoned, without warning, the just and the unjust to turn from nature unto nature's God.

Should these departed ones be forgotten? Ah, no. The sun of heaven should not be made to smile on decayed and uncared-for graves, but on a lovely garden, garnished with beautiful flowers, tended by loving hands, and guarded by innocent birds, whose songs would be praises unto Heaven for the blessings in this life, and prayers for mercies in that to come. Our constant visits to these sacred spots, the mournful grandeur of the memorial stone, together with the engraved epitaphs, are all typical evidences of an established faith in immortality, and a happy union beyond the grave. Though it may create a feeling of sadness for a while, yet we would ask you to go there, dear stranger; go there, and then you will be better able to judge us, and will perhaps understand us, and appreciate us far better than by our follies and extravagance in show.

MOUNT VERNON,

the home and burial place of Washington, is sacred to every loyal American. It is beautifully located on the Potomac river, fifteen miles from the national capital, and from its commanding position overlooks a beautiful valley. The old homestead still stands, and in its plainness indicates the simplicity of taste of its illustrious owner. The tomb containing the remains of George Washington is situated but a short distance from the house, in a retired spot, over which stands sentinel a group of willow trees, faithful guardians of the sacred dust, who, by their solemn visage, seem to await with anxious solicitude the last summons that will call on death to surrender up its victory. Through the patriotism and devotion of a society of ladies, aided by the exertions and literary labors of Hon. Edward Everett, the property was purchased from the late proprietors for $200,000, and now the sacred domain is under the protection and faithful charge of "The Ladies' Mount Vernon Association." Visitors and strangers can reach it by way of Washington every day, the steamer leaving her dock, foo of Seventh street, daily.

CONSTITUTION.

Preamble.

We, the subscribers, led by a strong desire for the promotion of evangelical religion among the young men of this city, and impressed with the importance of concentrated effort, both for our own spiritual welfare and that of those from without who may be brought under our influence; and desirous of forming an association in which we may, with Christian sympathy and fraternity of feeling, labor together for the accomplishment of the great end proposed, hereby agree to adopt for our united government the following constitution:

Article I.

SEC. 1. This society shall be called the "YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF THE CITY OF WASHINGTON;" and its object shall be the promotion of evangelical religion, the cultivation of Christian sympathy, and the improvement of the mental and spiritual condition of young men.

SEC. 2. The agencies employed for the attainment of these objects shall be the efforts of the members in the spheres of their daily life, devotional meetings, classes for Biblical instruction, mission Sunday-schools, lectures, a library and reading-room, and any other agencies in accordance with the Scriptures.

Article II.

SEC. 1. Any person of good moral character may become an associate member of this Association by the payment of two dollars annually in advance.

SEC. 2. Any person who is a member in regular standing of an evangelical church may become an active member of this Association by the payment of two dollars annually in advance.

SEC. 3. Active members only shall have the right to vote and be eligible to office and to membership on standing committees.

SEC. 4. Life members may be constituted by the payment of thirty dollars at any one time; honorary life members by the payment of fifty dollars at any one time; and any person annually contributing five dollars or more shall be constituted a sustaining member, in each case subject to the qualifications and restrictions of sections first and second of this article.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

POST OFFICE BUILDING

is on the square bounded by E and F and Seventh and Eighth streets. The entrance to the Department is on E street, and to the City Post Office on F street.

OFFICERS.

Postmaster—J. M. Edmunds.
Assistant Postmaster and Cashier—Lewis Porter.
Chief Clerk—Lambert Tree.
Assistant Chief Clerk—Nathan H. Barrett.
Superintendent of Post Office—William T. Turpin.
Chief Assorting Clerk for City Delivery—George H. Plant, Jr.
Superintendent of Money-Order Department—Simeon H. Merrill.
Clerk of Registry Department—S. R. Kilby.
Superintendent of Letter Carriers—James E. Bell.
Chief of Mailing Department—Richard Lay.
Special Agent—James L. McPhail.

Entrance to Money-Order and Registry Departments from F street, door east of delivery.

Entrance to Postmaster's, Chief Clerk's, and Cashier's rooms, door west of delivery.

OFFICE HOURS.

The office is open from 6 A. M. to 8 o'clock P. M., except on Sunday, on which day it is open from 8 to 10 A. M. and 6 to 7 P. M.

The Money-Order and Registered-Letter Departments are open from 8 A. M. to 4 P. M.; but letters of especial importance may, on application to the Chief Clerk, be registered as late as 6 o'clock P. M. No business is transacted in either of these departments on Sunday.

The Letter Carriers' window is open from 7 to 8 o'clock P. M. General delivery windows are open until 11 o'clock P. M.

POSTAL RULES.

All drop letters must be prepaid by postage stamps, at the rate of 2 cents per one-half ounce.

Prepayment by stamps required on all letters to places within the United States.

Full prepayment by stamps required on all transient printed matter, foreign and domestic.

All letters not prepaid by stamps, all such as are received in the office with stamps cut from stamped envelopes, or with such postage stamps as were in use prior to 1861, or with revenue stamps on them, are treated as "unmailable" and sent to the Dead-Letter Office.

Letters for Georgetown, D. C., require 3 cents for each one-half ounce.

Letters which have not been delivered can be forwarded, without additional charge, upon a written request.

Letters once delivered from a post office cannot be remailed without prepayment of a new postage.

Quarterly rates of postage cannot be received for a less time than one quarter.

When the subscription to a newspaper, periodical, or magazine commences at any other time than the beginning of a postal quarter, the payment must be made to the end of the next following quarter.

Parties claiming to have paid postage in advance to the late postmaster must produce a receipt or other satisfactory evidence that the postage has been paid as claimed.

Potatoes, apples, peaches and other fruit are not mailable matter, and should be excluded from the mails.

Winter-green leaves, sage leaves, and herbs for medicinal purposes, are subject to letter rates of postage.

Any printed matter so marked or written upon as to convey any other or further information than is conveyed by the original print is subject to letter rates of postage.

Lead pencils, shirts, and towels, if sent by mail, are subject to letter rates of postage.

Manuscripts and corrected proofs for attorneys' briefs and arguments are subject to letter postage. Manuscripts for pamphlets or lists for agricultural societies are also subject to letter postage.

Valuable letters should be carried to the Post Office and registered. If money is to be remitted a Postal Money Order should be obtained. Money should NEVER be enclosed in an ordinary letter.

All letters to be mailed must be plainly addressed, and the name of the Post Office, State, and County clearly written. Care in this respect will insure the prompt delivery of all letters, while a defective address carries them invariably to the Dead-Letter Office.

MONEY-ORDER OFFICE.

Especial attention is called to the Money-Order system as a safe and cheap method of transmitting small sums through the mails. Orders are issued in sums of not more than $50. Larger amounts can be transmitted to the same person, at the same time, by additional orders.

Rates.

On orders not exceeding $20	10 cents
Over $20 and not exceeding $30	15 "
Over $30 " " $40	20 "
Over $40 " " $50	25 "

Money-orders can be obtained on any post office of Switzerland at the above rates.

REGISTRY DEPARTMENT.

Letters may be registered, by paying postage in full, and a registration fee in stamps, for—

United States..... 15 cents

Letters cannot be registered to France.

POSTAGE ON PRINTED MATTER, ETC.

Newspapers.

Newspapers sent by mail must be prepaid by stamps, unless "regularly issued and sent to regular subscribers" by publishers or newsdealers, when the following rates are charged, payable quarterly in advance, either at the mailing or delivery office:

Dailies	35	cents
Six times a week	30	"
Tri-Weeklies	15	"
Semi-Weeklies	10	"
Weeklies	5	"
Semi-Monthly, not over 4 ozs	6	"
Monthlies, not over 4 ozs	3	"
Quarterlies, not over 4 ozs	1	"

Newspapers, periodicals, and circulars dropped into the office for local delivery must be prepaid at the rate of 2 cents for 4 ounces.

The postage on regular papers, &c., must be paid in advance to the carrier or at the office, otherwise they will be charged at transient rates.

Postage to Canada.

Postage on books and other printed matter, including newspapers, can only be paid to the Canada line.

Books.

Not exceeding 4 ounces in weight, 4 cents.
And for each additional 4 ounces, or fraction, 4 cents.

Unsealed Circulars.

Not exceeding three in number to one address, 2 cents.
Over three and not exceeding six to one address, 4 cents.
Any larger number the same proportionate rates.

Transient Printed Matter.

One package to one address, not exceeding 4 ounces, 2 cents.
And for each additional 4 ounces, or fraction thereof, 2 cents.
No printed matter is forwarded unless prepaid.

Miscellaneous Matter,

(Embracing pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, hand-bills, posters, book manuscript, proof-sheets, corrected or not, maps, prints, engravings, sheet music, blanks, flexible patterns, sample cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes or wrappers, cards, paper, plain or ornamental, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, and scions,) must be prepaid as follows: on one package to one address, not over 4 ounces, 2 cents; over 4 ounces and not over 8 ounces, 4 cents; over 8 ounces and not over 12 ounces, 6 cents; over 12 ounces and not over 16 ounces, 8 cents. The weight of packages of seeds, cuttings, roots, and scions is limited to 32 ounces.

FREE DELIVERY.

The deliveries of letters and other mailable matter by carriers, in the central and business sections of the city, are made as follows: 8.30 and 11 o'clock A. M.; 2 and 4.15 o'clock P. M. In the outside districts deliveries are made at 8.30 A. M. and 2 o'clock P. M.

Collections from the street boxes are made at the same time of the delivery in each section. Collections are also at 6.30 P. M. for the evening mails.

Parties now renting boxes, or receiving their mail matter through the General Delivery, can receive their mail at their residences or places of business, regularly and without risk, by the Carrier System of Free Delivery, by giving orders to the carrier of their district, or to the Superintendent at Post Office.

The advantages of a free delivery system cannot be too highly estimated. It is more regular, more secure, and more convenient than the box system.

If the business community could be induced to cease sending boys to the Post Office for their mail matter, and accept the means provided by the Department for a safe delivery through responsible carriers, a great evil would be corrected, and many losses (now occurring) prevented.

Carriers are required to collect all arrears of postage upon delivery of matter, the law being imperative in this respect.

The Postmaster General recommends that safe and convenient boxes for the receipt of mail be provided at private residences and business offices.

It is only necessary that a letter should be plainly and accurately addressed to insure its prompt delivery, and in making such address, writers should, in addition to the number and street, be careful to add the quarter of the city, as N. W., S. W., N. E., or S. E., as the case may be.

It is believed that the carriers will, in all cases, be prompt and faithful in the discharge of their duties, in which they can be greatly aided by the public, by providing receptacles for the mail, as above suggested, or by promptly answering the call of carriers at their doors.

Any neglect on the part of carriers should be at once reported to the office, that it may be corrected.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and address, with request to return to writer, on any of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Stamp window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500. The occupation of writer will not be printed.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office, and State on the upper left hand corner of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure stamped envelopes, with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge. Stamped envelopes spoiled in directing are redeemed at this office.

DO NOT DETAIN YOUR CARRIER.

It would prove a great assistance to the carrier system if persons would avoid detaining their carrier in collecting his postage, or keeping him waiting at the doors of private residences; for the carrier, while waiting only a few minutes, would be able to serve nearly a whole square.

Delays can be obviated by procuring a letter-box, to be placed on the door, or in the entry of one's residence. (A specimen box can be seen by calling upon the Superintendent of Carriers.) The Postmaster General recommends the use of these boxes for safety.

☞ The asterisk (*) indicates that in cases where it is prefixed, unless the letter be registered, prepayment is optional; in all other cases prepayment is required.

GEORGETOWN,

the second city in size in the District of Columbia, is beautifully situated on the east side of the Potomac and separated from the national capital by Rock creek, and is distant about three miles west from the Capitol. It was originally laid out in 1751, at which time it belonged to the State of Maryland, and was incorporated a town in 1789, Robert Peter, Esq., being the first Mayor. Under the provision of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a government for the District of Columbia," approved February 21, 1871, Georgetown, like all other portions of the District of Columbia, lost her individuality as a being corporate and became a part and parcel of the "New Territorial Government." The city is noted for its fine schools and academies, foremost among which we may mention Georgetown College, situated on the Heights, immediately north of the city, commanding a fine view of the Potomac river and the surrounding country. The position of Georgetown is remarkably salubrious. It is handsomely situated on a succession of hills, so that its streets are thoroughly cleansed of every impurity on the occasion of any considerable rain that falls. The trade of the city consists of lumber, coal, tobacco, flour, soap, candles, &c., and although not very considerable at the present time, in former years she was a place of considerable importance.

To give the reader an opportunity to judge of the energy and enterprise which characterized the early inhabitants of this interesting little city we append hereto a short sketch of her younger days, which has been kindly furnished us from the pen of one of her most eminent lawyers, a gentleman in every way fully capable of doing the subject justice :

"Georgetown, situated at the confluence of Rock creek and the Potomac river, was laid out by an act of the legislature of Maryland in 1751; and being situated upon a noble river soon became a place of trade and commerce with foreign countries. The planters and farmers brought their crops here for sale or shipment to a distant land. As high as 5,000 hogsheads of tobacco have been shipped in one year, and not less than 300,000 barrels of flour have been inspected in the same length of time. Many of our citizens remember the ships Eagle and Shenandoah, which sailed regularly to Europe loaded with tobacco, and brought in return cargoes of salt. In course of time our ships went the way of all ships by being stranded at sea, and our noble town felt the great loss of the vessels that were wont to unload at our wharves, amidst the shouts of the boatmen and the songs of the sailors. A number of enterprising citizens afterwards purchased four ships, named the Francis Depau, Southerner, Caledonia, and Catherine Jackson. They made their appearance in our harbor in the summer and autumn of 1836, and after making several voyages were finally sold as being too large for our commerce.

"Our merchants then engaged in the coasting trade, having a number of vessels sailing to Boston, Newburyport, New York, and other cities, carrying away large quantities of flour and produce brought down the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which extends into the interior of Maryland a distance of 184 miles. Others extended their commerce to the West Indies, and we had large quantities of sugar and productions of the Indies brought in every few months, and sold upon the wharves at public sale. In course of time the sailing packets passed away, and we have in their place steamers plying between our town, Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, and Norfolk, which always arrive heavily loaded with freight, and carry away in return cargoes of flour. The heaviest trade carried on at this time is in the article of coal. Thousands of boats arrive at our town by the canal from Cumberland, loaded with coal, which is shipped in vessels to distant ports, and is largely used by the ocean steamers and manufacturing establishments. Our river is frequently covered with vessels, with their forest of masts reaching toward the sky, awaiting their turn to be loaded, before sailing to a distant clime.

"Our town is so located that the Potomac river has a fall of thirty-three feet within four miles from the Little Falls to the canal basin, and the canal flowing through the town having the same fall to the river, renders its banks desirable for milling purposes. The consequence is, we have a number of merchant mills in our town, located on the canal and propelled by water power. The first is the mill of D. L. Shoemaker; the second, William H. Tenney & Sons; third, Mark Young; fourth, James S. Welsh; fifth, George Shoemaker; sixth, Ross Ray & Brother; seventh, George Hill's paper mill; eighth, A. H. Herr, at the foot of the market. These mills will shell out from 150 to 300 barrels of flour per day. Besides these we have other mills in the neighborhood of the town, as the Lock Mills, on the canal, about two miles above the town, Lyon's Mills, and the Columbia Mills, located on Rock creek, all of which are supplied with grain brought down the canal, or by vessels from a distance.

"Our town was chartered in 1789 by the legislature of Maryland. From that year to the 1st day of June, 1871, it never had but two clerks: the late John Mountz was clerk from the passage of the charter until 1856, when he was superseded in office by William Laird, Esq., the present clerk and treasurer, now settling up the financial affairs of the town. Mr. Mountz became disqualified for the active duties of clerk by advanced age, and was still retained by our corporate authorities as consulting clerk until 1st August, 1857, when he died, at an advanced age, 'an honest man, the noblest work of God.' Mr. Laird, his successor, has no superior as an accountant in this country, being the son of an eminent merchant of our town, qualified by a liberal education and long service in the counting-room. He fulfilled the expectations of the people. Now our charter has passed away, and we have entered upon a municipal District government, the question is, shall we be benefited by the change? Three corporations are now concentrated into one municipality. We are now with Washington, one town, one city, and one people. If the new government is strangled in its infancy with too much 'pap,' we shall perish. Otherwise we shall float upon the tide of prosperity, and the genius of our commerce will spread her white wings over every sea, until we shall become renowned throughout the inhabitable globe."

The only other places of any importance in the District of Columbia are Tennallytown, Brightwood, and Uniontown, the first two named being very small we will only briefly notice the latter.

UNIONTOWN.

This little village is beautifully situated on the Anacostia river, near its mouth, and opposite the United States Arsenal. Its location is very picturesque and desirable for private residences. Resting on the side of a sloping hill, commanding a lovely view of the city of Washington, Uniontown appears like a Swiss village, and its neat white cottages present an air of liveliness and thrift. Many wealthy citizens have taken up their residence here, and have built beautiful rural homes on the summit of the hill overlooking the town. Its close proximity to the national capital affords its citizens ample market facilities and intercommunication with all parts of the country. The Washington city passenger railway leaves the Navy-Yard, only a short walk from the bridge connecting Uniontown with the capital, every five minutes during the day for all parts of the city and Georgetown. The village contains a few small stores, churches, schools, &c.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Mount Pleasant is situated upon the elevated plateau northwest of Washington and about half a mile from Boundary street, the nominal limit of the city. It is approached by Fourteenth-street road, which forms the present eastern border of the village. Sixteenth-street road, which is about to be opened, will intersect the old Georgetown road at James Esslin's, and follow the route of that road through the western part of Mount Pleasant, passing the residences of S. P. Brown and Mrs. General Walbridge, to meet the Fourteenth-street road at Piney Branch.

Being upon a high, sandy plain and remote from marshes, Mount Pleasant is, perhaps, the most healthy suburb of Washington, as is proved by its complete exemption from chills and fever and the autumnal fevers of malarious districts which frequently prevail in the city, particularly in some localities in the outskirts, and during very dry or very wet and changeable seasons.

Mount Pleasant was commenced in 1866 by opening Howard street and the erection thereon of five houses, Mr. B. P. Davis, the present superintendent of schools, being the leader in the movement. Each residence had a full acre of ground, so situated as to be divided when desirable, the cost at that time being $650. At present, 1871, ground is worth from 5 to 10 cents per square foot, or from $2,000 to $4,000 per acre, and rapidly rising in value.

Excellent water is found by digging wells to the depth of thirty or forty feet, and the earth being sandy or alluvial, there is no difficulty in making driven wells simply by driving an iron tube, properly pointed, until water is reached, and then by attaching a pump at the top a full supply of underground spring water is obtained.

Mount Pleasant has grown, and is now growing, very rapidly, and in connection with the improvements of College Hill and the Meridian Hill property, it will soon be continuous with the city of Washington. A good school has been long established, and a large school house is now being erected for higher classes and a properly-graded school. With Columbian College on the border of Mount Pleasant, the opportunities for education are excellent. An omnibus is owned by those who do not keep their own carriages. It runs regularly to the Treasury and Patent Office, and three times a week it goes to Centre Market, and waits there to take home marketing; and as soon as Fourteenth street is graded, the contract for which is already given out, the horse-railroad will be extended half a mile to Mount Pleasant.

The residents of Mount Pleasant are very intelligent, and many of them highly educated, and they sustain a literary and scientific society, in which both sexes and all ages participate. Also, they have an informal church, which ignores sectarianism, under the belief of Christian union and Christian works, and not creeds.
